Crisis in Cabinet Threatens Revolution in Italy

Vatican's Failure to Support Mussolini Proves Unlooked-for Blow to Premier's Plans.

MENACE IN MEETING OF SOCIALIST CONGRESS

Fusion of Populist and Communist Parties Would Mean Downfall of Government.

Rome, April 15.—Threatened with a cabinet crisis that may destroy his authority over Italy, Premier Benito Mussolini called on all fascists Sunday to be ready for another and greater revolution.

The desertion of his government by the populist party and the failure of the vatican to come to his support must weaken the dormant fighting spirit of the fascists, he declared to an assembly of blackshirts in Milan.

"Keep the legion full of moral and material efficiency, ready momentarily to answer by call for an inexorable continuation of the fascist revolution," he said.

Minister Bianchi went even further. Asked to effect the opposition of the four populist members of the cabinet would have after the hostile convention of their party at Turin, Bianchi said:

"The march on Rome was only the beginning of the fascist government which must be completed. What we did not do then we shall not hesitate to do today, not for the pleasure of remaining in power but because of a victorious anti-fascist movement would plunge the country into chaos and ruin."

"Only another extremist anti-parliamentary party could succeed the fascists—namely the communist party."

"Electoral reform must be accomplished, even by royal decree, if necessary."

Solved in One Hour.
If the populist members of the cabinet resign, the crisis will be solved in one hour. Any parliamentary action or insurrection will be followed by punishment of the chambers."

Premier Mussolini set out boldly to meet the populist drift to the left, declaring open tactics were all that could break up the slowly-forming

BOY MEETS DEATH
WHEN AUTO HITS
PASSENGER TRAIN

Millard Jolly, 18, of Decatur, Instantly Killed in Wreck of Car Near Tucker, Ga.

Millard Jolly, 18, son of a dairyman living near Decatur, Ga., was instantly killed and Boyd Hale, 19, Chamblee, Ga., his companion, was injured when Hale's automobile crashed into an eastbound Seaboard passenger train at 4:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon, near Tucker, Ga.

The engineer stopped the train and the crew put Hale and his companion's body aboard and carried them into Atlanta. Hale was rushed to Davis-Fisher sanitarium in a Greenburg and Bond ambulance, where his injuries were pronounced not to be serious. He was suffering from severe bruises.

Although Hale was unable to make a statement about the accident, it was learned that the boys had been riding in the vicinity of Lawrenceville an pleasure bent earlier in the day. On their return trip they failed to see the approaching train and were thrown several feet as the car was torn to bits.

Jolly was the oldest of a family of seven boys and one girl. He was in charge of his father's dairy. In addition to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Jolly, he is survived by one sister, Miss Irma Lee, and the following brothers: Fred, Ralph, Joseph, Louis, Max, Donald and Alton.

Funeral arrangements had not been made at an early hour Monday morning.

SEVEN PERSONS
KILLED IN WRECK.
In a collision Sunday between a city construction department truck driven by M. P. Cornett, of 16 Peachtree avenue, and a touring car driven by R. E. Phillips, of 1000 Peachtree street, on Park street near Whitehall, six persons were slightly injured.

Phillips, Mrs. Phillips, Miss Jeanette Phillips and Mrs. R. L. White, all riding in the touring car, and Cornett and D. F. Bowles, foreman in the construction department, who were in the truck, were those injured.

Call Officers E. G. Stigall and John Crankshaw investigated the accident, and arrested Cornett on charges of reckless driving. His trial was set for Friday and bond at $1,000.

Mattie Young, a negro, was struck by an automobile at Fort and Houston streets Sunday night, and slightly injured. The driver of the automobile did not stop his car, but speeded on, police were told.

Finds Wife Dead

Mrs. J. C. Young, 73, Probably Had Been Dead Several Days.

Returning Sunday afternoon from a reunion with the few who are left of the fast diminishing line in gray, J. C. Young, 73, who fought under Lee and Jackson, stepped into his home at 72 McAdams street to find his wife dead.

Mrs. Young was seen last on Monday by Mrs. C. D. Holly, a neighbor living at 76 McAdams street. "I thought she had come to visit relatives," Mrs. Holly explained, "for I had not noticed her for several days. She often goes to spend a few days with members of her family who live near Riverside."

The exact time of Mrs. Young's death could not be learned by the police who were called to investigate the case Sunday evening. Awtrey & Lowndes, undertakers, after examining the body, were of the opinion that she had been dead for two or three days. Her body was found under a bed. There were no marks of violence on it.

Mrs. Young is survived by her husband and one sister, Mrs. Sarah Bruce, of Lookout, Ga. Mrs. Bruce was notified Sunday night of her sister's death, but on account of advanced age and ill health she will not be able to attend the funeral.

Funeral arrangements have not been made, except that the interment will be held in Hollywood cemetery.

OF NON-PARTISAN
LEAGUE IN DAKOTA

But Wheat Growers of State Are Grouchy Over Passing of Wartime Boom.

FARMERS ARE FOOLED
BY WILY POLITICIANS

Hard-Headed Business Men, However, Believe Voters Are Waking Up to Trickery.

BY LOUIS SEIBOLD.
(Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Bismarck, N. D., April 15.—(Special.)—North Dakota where the latest fashions in politics are fabricated is pretty well fed up on radicalism but still willing to take another chance in industrial socialism. The rising tide of prosperity manifest in every part of the country and now expanding northward has somewhat dampened the ardor of the promoters of the Non-Partisan league, although it has not curbed the stubbornness of defenders of the bizarre agrarian program set up by it. Even the frank admission of Townley, the creator of the most recent brand of state socialism actually tried in the United States that such altruistic ventures could not survive in the face of natural laws has failed to check the demand for further experiments in that direction as the staggering bill of costs is remorselessly assessed and collected.

Back of this agricultural stubbornness inspired by chimerical beliefs in internationalism and communism doctrines which have failed miserably is a foreign flavor not entirely in accord with the principles of American representative government. The adherents of American democratic standards have a local name for it. They call it "fin-swe-gwin," symbolizing its composite Scandinavian origin. However this may be, there is no question but that a lot of radicals still thrive on the wind-swept North Dakota prairies and in the snow-laden foothills looming in the west. Business is better than it has been since the peak of war days when accompanying inflation brought $3 wheat and the North Dakota farmer was encouraged to expend his production beyond the normal needs of peace time. The North Dakota wheat grower was gullible enough to believe the politicians when they predicted that war time prosperity would continue for all time.

Now Known Better.
The North Dakota farmer knows better now, his wheat is down below $1 and is a drug on the market at the price. He has vaguely understood the economic conditions responsible for this. He points out that the industrial worker is still drawing wartime wages, the railways maintaining freight rates that cut off his profits, the failure of the Harding administration to open up the markets of the world to his wheat, the exactions of the new tariff law and the government tax bill which penalizes him beyond what seems to be just. He does not or will not understand the real reasons for the conditions he holds responsible for the troubles that beset him.

Now the fact is the North Dakota farmer enjoys no monopoly in the matter of grievances. These exist in every part of the country, but the North Dakota agriculturalist is "grouchy" about it, whereas his fellows in other parts of the country are reconciled to the imperative necessities of the situation. Aside from the low price of grains the varied agricultural and industrial enterprises of North Dakota are in fairly good shape and getting better all the time. The cattle, hog, fancy stock, dairy, miscellaneous farm products, manufacturing, wholesale and retail business is "picking up in fine shape," the most important retarding factor being a backward spring. In other words general business is pronounced good, except of course, in the grain zone. It would be better if labor were more plentiful and less expensive and the mounting cost of production and living expenses has passed the peak of the war and is on the downward slide. The North Dakota farmer does not realize that these troubles are universal. He thinks they apply only to his own activities.

Wherefore he is still clamoring for "a new deal" in government despite his distressing experience with the

Luckie Street Widening
Urged in Sunday Sermon

According to the plans proposed for the improvement of Luckie street in order to end congestion on this thoroughfare, the street will be widened from the present fifty feet to sixty feet on both sides between Bartow and Simpson; from near Simpson to Hunnicutt from fifty to sixty feet on the east side; and from Hunnicutt to North avenue from forty to sixty, on both sides about the new axis.

Klan to Survive
Despite Battles,
Says Dr. Ridley

Imperial Kludd Presented With Check by Three White-Robed Klansmen.

"For an emperor and wizard to fly at each other's throats looks dangerous in the extreme, but is quite possible that both will live over it; and certain it is the Klan will survive."

The above words were spoken last night by Rev. Caleb A. Ridley, pastor of Central Baptist church and Imperial Kludd or chaplain of the Ku Klux Klan, in making a statement to a large congregation relative to the sensational battle that is being waged in Fulton county courts between the founder, Colonel William Joseph Simmons, emperor and Dr. H. W. Evans, wizard, for control of the "Invisible Empire."

"Wizards may come," continued the speaker, following an outbreak of applause that lasted for several minutes, "and wizards may go, but the Ku Klux Klan goes on forever."

Give Ridley Check.
A dramatic episode, occurring just previous to Dr. Ridley's statement, which added perceptibly to the interest of his sensational remarks, was the appearance of three klansmen, hooded and white-robed, who marched silently down the aisle of the large church.

Reaching the platform one of the klansmen handed Dr. Ridley an envelope, after which they seated themselves at the foot of the rostrum. Opening the big envelope Dr. Ridley read a letter from Nathan Bedford Forrest Klan No. 1, which offered sympathy to the preacher over the recent loss of his home, by fire, and which stated that a check had been enclosed which would aid him in restoring some of the treasures that he had lost. The amount of the check was not stated. The three klansmen, after reading of the letter, marched silently from the church, and as they reached the doorway the audience burst into applause. Dr. Ridley was much affected by the dramatic incident, saying simply, "thank you," as the hooded figures left the audience.

Says Klan Will Survive.
The statement, which was read by Dr. Ridley, in which he declared that

Rev. John W. Ham Calls
Mass Meeting at Baptist
Tabernacle for 7:30
Thursday Night.

Plans for widening of Luckie street, now suffering from traffic congestion and destined to suffer more when the spring street viaduct is completed, were discussed at length last night at the Baptist tabernacle by Rev. John W. Ham in the prelude to his regular Sunday night sermon. At the conclusion of his talk he announced a call for a mass meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night at the tabernacle, at which the matter will be thoroughly considered and action taken to bring the situation to the attention of the county commissioners and city council.

He declared that it was imperative that the street be widened at once. Plans Mr. Ham has in mind would call for widening of the street from the present fifty to sixty feet from Bartow to near Simpson; from near Simpson to Hunnicutt, from fifty to sixty; and from Hunnicutt to North avenue from the present forty to sixty feet.

Fine Thoroughfare.
When this widening is completed it will make a magnificent avenue all the way from the Piedmont hotel to the river.

At the city limits the county is now continuing Hemphill avenue, which is an extension of Luckie street, and this extension will be carried straight on to the Chattahoochee river. The work on this extension between the city limits and the river, is already more than half finished and will be under contract soon. The new drive will be known as North Side drive, after leaving the city limits.

This avenue starts at the Piedmont hotel on Luckie street, passes the Technological school, where it becomes Hemphill avenue, then passes the city water works pumping station, then by the city property on which the Peachtree disposal plant is located, then straight north toward the Chattahoochee river, crossing Pace's ferry road at the Morris Brandon place.

It will become another direct route to Marietta and the shortest route to Roswell.

Sermon by Pastor.
"Break the bottle neck in Luckie street and make of this important artery of travel a boulevard," said

HARDING INDORSES
STONE MOUNTAIN
MEMORIAL PLAN

Coolidge Is Greatly Interested in Progress and Regrets Inability to Attend Meeting.

PRESIDENT TO SEND REPRESENTATIVE HERE

Invitation Extended to Lord Robert Cecil. Hoped Englishman Will Be Able to Come.

Hollins N. Randolph, chairman of the state executive committee of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, and Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor of the monumental carving which is to memorialize the leaders of the confederate cause on Stone Mountain, returned Sunday from Washington, where they went to confer with President Harding, by appointment, relative to the president's letter of indorsement which is to be read at the banquet to be given to many notable men of the nation at the Capital City club on Friday evening.

Mr. Randolph states that the president not only has written a letter heartily indorsing this notable project, but has designated Colonel C. O. Sherrill, his chief aide, who is also chief executive officer of the monuments and park commission in Washington, as his personal representative, at the banquet next Friday evening.

Expresses Keen Regret.
Had not Vice-President Calvin Coolidge had a very important speaking engagement in Springfield, Mass., next Saturday, the vice president would have been present. He expressed keen regret to Mr. Randolph and Mr. Borglum that he could not take advantage of the invitation, since he is deeply interested in the entire conception of creating this enormous and magnificent monument on the face of Stone Mountain to honor the confederate cause.

While in Washington, Mr. Randolph extended an invitation to Lord Robert Cecil, who is now in this country on a speaking tour, to be a guest of the memorial association, and it is hoped that the eminent Englishman and league of nations advocate will be able to adjust his schedule so as to be present.

Mr. Randolph and Mr. Borglum are enthusiastic over the results of their trip. While in Washington they saw a number of other prominent men, all of whom expressed themselves as heartily in favor of this historic achievement.

Progress Is Made.
It will be recalled that the conception to carve upon the side of Stone Mountain this great memorial commemorative of the valorous deeds of the soldiers of the confederacy originated some six or seven years ago. Since after its inception very considerable progress was made towards its completion, but the war coming on, the work had necessarily to be laid aside. A group of prominent citizens took up the work again last summer and fall and have been actively at work upon it since and recently the actual carving of the design and figures was commenced by Mr. Borglum.

At the banquet at the Capital City club on Friday evening next the guests will consider the Ishih-Lansing agreement.

Germans Must Allot
One-Third of Income
To Wives for Table

Berlin, April 15.—German husbands must give their wives one-third of their incomes to maintain the family table. That is the law, and the German newspapers are now calling this fact to the attention of housewives who are having trouble making their allowances cover the increased costs of food. This one-third income is not to meet rent or the wages of servants. It is merely to cover the expense of keeping up the table.

Lansing-Ishii Agreement of 1917 Cancelled by Japanese Confirmation of Hughes' Note.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, April 15.—Official announcement that the celebrated Lansing-Ishii agreement between the United States and Japan has been cancelled, and is "of no further force or effect" was made today by the state department with an explanation that the cancellation was being announced simultaneously in Tokyo by the Japanese foreign office, in an identical statement.

The statement given out here included only the texts of the notes exchanged between Secretary Hughes and Masamune Hanihara, the Japanese ambassador, and was made public without comment.

Signed by Hughes.
The note signed by Secretary Hughes under date of April 14, and addressed to Ambassador Hanihara, said:

"I have the honor to communicate to your excellency my understanding of the views developed by the discussions which I have recently had with your excellency in reference to the status of the Lansing-Ishii exchange of notes of November 2, 1917."

"The discussions between the two governments have disclosed an identity of view, and in the light of the understanding arrived at by the Washington conference on the limitation of armaments, the American and Japanese governments are agreed to consider this Lansing-Ishii agreement, of November 2, 1917, as cancelled and of no further force or effect."

"I shall be glad to have your confirmation of the accord thus reached."

Hanihara Replies.
Ambassador Hanihara replied to Secretary Hughes under the same date as follows:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of today's date, communicating to me your understanding of the views developed by the discussions which you have recently had with this embassy in reference to the status of the Ishih-Lansing exchange of notes of November 2, 1917."

"I am having to be able to confirm to you, under instructions from my government, your understanding of the view thus developed as set forth in the following terms:

Man, Burned to Death, Is Believed by Authorities to Be Arthur Mabry, 74 Years Old.

More Than Ten Men in House at Time—Make Their Escape by Jumping From Windows.

One man, believed to be Arthur Mabry, was burned to death, and K. O. Stunsel was seriously, perhaps fatally burned in a fire which damaged a boarding house at 224 1-2 Peters street shortly before midnight Sunday night.

The injured man was taken to Grady hospital, where he is in a semi-conscious condition. He was overcome by smoke and his foot is badly scorched.

The body of the dead man was taken to Harry G. Poole's undertaking parlors to await advice from relatives.

The fire started in the kitchen of the house, which is operated by W. S. Hoyle for G. W. Blankenship, and according to Mr. Hoyle there had been no fire in the room since noon Sunday and he was at a loss to account for the fire.

Man Was Asleep.
The dead man thought to be Mabry, 74 years old, was asleep in a rear room on the second floor. Mr. Hoyle tried to awaken him, he said, but was not successful, and was himself driven from the room by flames and smoke. The body was brought out of the burning building by the firemen and a pulmotor was sent for by Chief W. B. Cady. Grady hospital was also was called.

The pulmotor was used for about twenty minutes until the ambulance arrived, when Dr. L. M. Sanders, attached from the hospital, pronounced him dead. His body was placed in the ambulance and carried to the undertaker.

The boarding house occupied the second floor of the brick building, the first floor of which was used as a furniture store by Mr. Blankenship. The damage to the furniture store was mainly from water. The boarding house was almost totally destroyed by the fire.

Men Made Escape.
Between ten and fifteen men were asleep upstairs at the time of the fire. Most of these escaped by jumping from the windows, or by sliding down improvised ropes made of sheets and quilts tied together, while several were fortunate enough to reach the stairs ahead of the flames and escape.

The fire was discovered by R. E. Fields, who was asleep in a large room with six other men. He roused them and then went to assist others on the floor. He reached the room occupied by Mr. Mabry about the time Mr. Hoyle reached there and together they attempted to awaken the aged man.

When finally driven from the room by the fire and smoke, Mr. Fields went back to his own room to see if all the men there had escaped. Before he could get out his escape was cut off by the flames and he was forced to jump. Before jumping he threw some of his clothes out and dressed on the ground. KURSKY OUTLINES STATUS OF CHURCH Soviet Commissar of Justice Declares Religious Freedom Upheld by Russian Government.

Moscow, April 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—In connection with the recent trial of the Roman Catholic Archbishop Zeplich and the forthcoming trial of the Most Rev. Dr. Tikhon, former patriarch, of all-Russia, Commissar of Justice Kursky today made to the Associated Press the following statement:

"The legal position of the church in Soviet Russia and its allied republics is best illustrated by the fundamental regulations fixed by the decree of separation of church and state in 1918. According to this, first, every citizen, may profess any religion or none at all; second, when the carrying out of religious rites does not interfere with public order and the rights of citizens, free performance of them is guaranteed; third, no church society has the right to property; fourth, all property belonging to church societies in Russia is declared to be national property, but buildings and articles of service are handed over to religious societies for free use."

These regulations, said M. Kursky, by virtue of law, apply equally to all citizens and religious societies of various creeds without exception. Kursky added that the decree, itself as well as all instructions to the local authorities, always conveyed freedom of faith and the taking of measures so as not to offend religious feelings.

"Against government," "But such an attitude toward the church by the commissar of justice continued, 'placing it in a condition of freedom while depriving the clergy of certain material welfare, called forth at first indignation and an open struggle of the church and hierarchy against the government.'"

"Dr. Tikhon and Archbishop Zeplich, leaders respectively of the orthodox and Catholic churches, carried on a campaign against the government since 1918 which the recent trial revealed as having the character of state treason and treason with respect to the Soviet republics' enemies. The Soviet authorities gave Catholic citizens full possibility to profess their religion, only the carrying out of the laws for the separation of church and state, abstaining from applying repression, in spite of the fact that it had applied grounds, because it was the feelings of the previously oppressed Catholic church."

The open counter-revolutionary activities of the highest clergy, however, compelled the government to raise the sword of justice, M. Kursky added, and "this now having fallen upon the heads of criminals it has not for a moment infringed the freedom of faith guaranteed by the decree." With regard to the criticism in connection with the trial of Catholic priests, M. Kursky said:

Press Has No Effect.
"The Russian courts were acting only according to Soviet laws, and no commission by the foreign press could change the sentences and the regulations of the supreme institution of the Soviet republic. The trial of Dr. Tikhon will begin April 23. His name has been connected with the struggle of the higher clergy of the orthodox church against the Soviet regime throughout the entire five years since the October revolution."

Having been elected patriarch, Dr. Tikhon immediately became leader of the church counter revolution. Not only did he proclaim anathema on the Soviet government and its leaders, but, as has now been ascertained, he supported personally and through his subordinates all the counter-revolutionary groups, including General Denikin and others.

Enumerating Dr. Tikhon's alleged activities against the Soviet government, M. Kursky said his appeals caused disorder in many towns. Several times the press has reported that the government, which showed him great tolerance, but Tikhon did not yield and in reply to the Soviet decree regarding church treasures, Tikhon called for active resistance, which resulted in bloodshed at many places.

At the forthcoming trial of Dr. Tikhon, there will be brought to light, according to M. Kursky, all particulars concerning the alleged activities of the patriarch for the retention of church property and against the decree of separation of church and state.

Mystery Vessel Believed Victim Of Rum Pirates

Two-Masted Schooner Found Abandoned With All Sails Set.

New York, April 15.—A mystery of the sea, involving a possible battle between rum runners and pirates developed today when the coast guard cutter Manhattan found the abandoned two-masted rum schooner "Patricia M. Behan" with sails set and anchor dragging at the entrance to Great South bay. The deck was strewn with empty cartridge shells and there were signs of a struggle, according to Captain M. J. Ryan of the Manhattan.

The schooner probably carried a crew of ten men and sufficient food for ten days was in the hold. While no liquor was found, entries on the log and a leaf torn from a notebook evidently owned by the craft had been engaged in the rum running business between Bridgeport, Conn., and Keyport, N. J. The first entry on the log was made on January 12 and the last at four p. m., April 10.

Lashed to the deck of the schooner, which is finely built, and of the Nova Scotia trading type, was a staunch 25 foot motor boat, with the name "Maid of Canada, La. Havre, N. S." painted on the side.

Considerably mystified, the coast guards towed the schooner into port and started an investigation. Examination of the torn leaf from the note book disclosed that on March 27, 3,918 packages of liquor had been sold at from $48 to $50 (presumably a case). The package showed that five cases of champagne had been sold for $80.

The schooner was once known as "Edith Helen Bush" but had been painted over, and covered with canvas upon which appeared the name of Patricia M. Behan.

GIRL IS TORTURED BY HER GUARDIAN, NEIGHBORS CLAIM

Greenville, Ga., April 15.—Not only has the lash been used on 11-year-old Hattie May Rosser, negro girl, of this county, but hot irons have been applied to her body until it was discolored yesterday by white people who investigated the case, her body is a mass of scars.

The child was adopted by Nanny Rosser and her husband, Bish Rosser, negroes, who own a farm in this county. Both of the Rossers are under arrest on charges of assault and battery and they will go to trial tomorrow morning in city court, Judge R. A. McGraw presiding.

The beatings and punishment by hot irons has been going on for months, according to the neighbors because she couldn't do a specified amount of work. While being tortured Saturday the child broke away, it is stated, and sought refuge from the white people of the community. She was brought to this city and Sheriff J. B. Jarrell and Ordinary M. Z. O'Neill conducted a personal investigation.

Business Better In England Now, Says Welborn

Reserve Bank Governor Did Not Have Chance to Enter King Tut's Tomb.

"Banking and business conditions in England, although not yet normal, are fast improving. I was told by an official of the Bank of England, while in London, declared M. E. Welborn, prominent Atlanta and governor of the Atlanta federal reserve bank, who has just returned from an extensive tour abroad.

"Although I did not enter Germany and only visited the lower part of France, I would venture to say that practically all the countries affected by the war are on the upward trend. England's business men believe that they are improving and will soon reach normalcy."

"The explanation for much of the apparent prosperity in England and France is the result of taxation. Heavy taxes are levied upon all forms of luxuries, and the income derived from this source is gradually putting those countries upon their feet financially."

"Sight Seeing" Trip.
Mr. Welborn said that although his trip was one of a "sight-seeing" nature, these conditions were so plainly apparent that they could be determined without concentrated investigation into foreign financial affairs. "A greater part of the luxury revenue pouring into the coffers of Britain and France is derived from heavy taxes levied upon alcoholic drinks. Although the many American prohibition evaders who pour into France and England daily are very much elated over Scotch whisky at $3.50 a quart, it is considered an exorbitant price by the natives."

Mr. Welborn spent two weeks in Egypt just before his return to the States. But found that the now famous burial place of King Tutankhamen was closed to visitors. He entered the tomb of Ramesses, the second, however.

Interesting Visit.
"My visit to Egypt was a most interesting one. Cairo, with its quaint people of every color and nationality, offers a spectacle that can be found only in that Egyptian metropolis."

"The pyramids and the Sphinx, as well as the ancient tombs of the pharaohs have an undeniable fascination."

Mr. Welborn brought back several souvenirs made by Armenian refugees now under the care of the Near East Relief society in Constantinople. Among these are some very interesting works of needle art. In his collection are a number of rare shawls made by Egyptian girls in Assuit, Egypt.

In traveling from Luxor to Cairo Mr. Welborn said he inquired of one of the trainmen what form of fuel was used in the locomotives, and was informed that coal alone was burned, and that it came from Virginia. U. S. A.

Among the countries visited by Mr.

Welborn were: Egypt, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Italy and Spain.

Mr. Welborn said that negotiations were now being made with the government to transport approximately 4,000 Italian farmers to America. They are hard-working, conscientious people, Mr. Welborn declared, and would be a great aid in improving American farming conditions.

In spite of the popular idea that Europe is over-flowing with drunk Americans, Mr. Welborn declared he saw fewer "drunks" abroad than he did in America.

Mr. Welborn arrived in New York a few days ago upon the U. S. S. Medterpan. He made the trip from New York to Atlanta by rail, arriving here Sunday morning.

Census Indicates Negroes Leaving Farms in Floyd

Many Go to Work in Rome; Some Have Left for North.

Rome, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—Rural districts of Floyd county lost almost 40 per cent of their negro population last year, the school census just completed is to be taken at its face value. This report shows that there is a decrease of approximately 40 per cent in the colored school population of the county districts from last year's figures.

County School Superintendent W. C. Rash states that he is told there is not a single negro family living in the Everett Springs district. The decrease in number is accounted for largely by their removal to Rome. It is admitted, however, that some have gone to cities of the north and west attracted by reports of high wages in those sections.

There will be a good increase in the total school population of the city of Rome, Mr. Rash declares. All of the wards reported to date show an increase and he expects the average to hold good.

SAVANNAH MAN IS SHOT BY WIFE; ACCIDENT BLAMED

Savannah, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) E. C. Slater, a member of the cotton firm of J. D. and E. C. Slater, of Orangeburg, S. C., but who resides in this city, is in a critical condition at the Savannah hospital, as the result of a shooting affair at his home about 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. He was shot one time, it is said, with a bullet from a 22 calibre revolver, fired accidentally by his wife. The bullet entered the right arm, passing through and into the abdominal cavity, lodging against the spine. The injured man absolves his wife from any blame in connection with the shooting, making the statement that the revolver fired accidentally.

BUS LINES BREAKING SHORT LINE RAILWAY

Anderson, April 15.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the city council, Superintendent Archer of the Big Ridge railway, stated that the road is now operating at a loss and asked for a reduction of city taxes on this road, that the present financial condition of the road was critical, and unless they had some immediate relief that there was a possibility of the road suspending. He pointed out that the bus lines which are being operated from this city had no roads, and little equipment to keep on, while the expenses of the railway were very heavy and that an estimate had been made that these bus lines had interfered with passenger traffic over the rail road, that the present financial condition of the road was critical, and unless they had some immediate relief that there was a possibility of the road suspending.

Americus, Ga., April 15.—Preliminary organization of the Sumter county peanut growers is expected to be completed at a meeting to be held in the court house here Wednesday, April 18. The principal speaker at the meeting will be John Mock, of Albany, who has been aiding in the organization work.

What you pay for food makes a big hole in the household budget. Food prices have not come down but continue to soar skyward. Shredded Wheat is always the same price, in good times and bad times, always the same high quality—the most real food for the least money. Cut out the expensive foods for a while and eat Shredded Wheat with milk or cream. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with milk make a nourishing meal at a cost of a few cents. To make a hot dish pour hot milk over the Biscuits. Delicious with fruits. It is ready-cooked.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat cracker—a real whole wheat toast—eaten with butter, soft cheese or marmalades. A free sample of Shredded Wheat with our new booklet, "The Happy Way to Health," is sent free on request.

TRAIN UP A TOOTH IN THE WAY IT SHOULD GO

WHEN the first tooth appears in the mouth of the child, countless enemies, in the form of mouth bacteria, begin their work.

Children are especially susceptible to tooth decay. Over 95 per cent of children of school age are in need of immediate dental service. Proper care would have prevented 80 per cent of this trouble.

Clean Mouth at 6—Healthy at 60

"A sanitary mouth," says a well known authority, "with good oral habits at six, is likely to remain a clean and healthy mouth at sixty."

The care of a child's mouth should begin at birth. A careful mother uses first a little boric acid on a piece of soft gauze wrapped around her finger, with which she washes the baby's gums, tongue and the roof of its mouth.

Baby's First Tooth and Kolynos

With the appearance of the first tooth, the same procedure should be followed, a bit of Kolynos Dental Cream being substituted for the boric acid.

By the time the child is eighteen months old, the mother can advantageously substitute for the gauze a small, soft toothbrush, with which Kolynos Dental Cream is applied.

At the age of three, in most cases, the child is able to use the brush itself, with a little instruction.

Then comes the period from three to six—one of the most important in the life of the teeth. Careful conservation of the milk teeth assures the correct coming-in of the second set.

At the age of six the second teeth begin to appear. Vigorous brushing with a perfect cleansing agent, like Kolynos, should be adhered to strictly, to prevent decay of the permanent teeth.

Makes Kolynos Habit Permanent

It will not take long for a child to form the permanent Kolynos habit of keeping the mouth hygienically clean—of removing daily from teeth, tongue, gums and mouth membrane many millions of disease germs, which might otherwise, at various periods, interfere with his physical health.

We have on file in our New Haven laboratories personal applications from over 47,000 American Dentists and 74,000 American Physicians for Kolynos Dental Cream, to distribute among their patients.

And such a habit, established in early childhood, adhered to through the period of adolescence to maturity, would be seriously missed if not carried on in later life.

The use of Kolynos Dental Cream is Tooth Insurance, from baby's first tooth onward.

NEW $75,000,000 LAND BANK ISSUE

New Issue Runs From 10 to 30 Years and Will Yield 4.45 Per Cent at Sales Price.

Following the recent call by the federal land banks for the redemption and payment of $55,632,000 outstanding 5 per cent bonds of May 1, announcement was made Sunday by the federal land banks and by Alex Brown and Sons, of Baltimore; Harris Forbes and company, Brown Brothers and company, Lee Higginson and company, The National City company, and the Guaranty Company of New York, of the offering today of a new issue of $75,000,000 10 to 30 year 4.45 per cent federal land bank bonds at a price of 101 1/2 and interest to yield about 4.45 per cent to the redeemable date, 1933, and 4.12 per cent thereafter to redemption or maturity.

The houses mentioned are the managers of a group of approximately 1,000 investment houses throughout the United States which, in conjunction with the federal land banks, offer at intervals the bonds of the banks. Recent offerings of these bonds have been quickly absorbed and with $35,000,000 available for reinvestment, a prompt sale is anticipated.

The new issue will run for a period of 30 years, instead of 20 years as heretofore, but will be redeemable as usual at the end of 10 years. The bonds will be dated January 1, 1923, and mature January 1, 1933. They will be in coupon and registered form, interchangeable, in denominations of $10,000, $5,000, $1,000, $500, $100 and $50. Interest is payable January 1 and July 1 at any federal land bank or federal reserve bank.

The supreme court of the United States has held that the bonds are exempt from federal, state and local taxation and the strong financial position and progress of the banks has been the subject of favorable comment.

Figures made public in connection with the new offering show that in the five years of active operation the 12 federal land banks have built up until on February 28, 1923, last their capital was $77,571,250, surplus, $3,463,000; and total assets, $82,000,000; and total liabilities, $76,285,082. All 12 banks are on a dividend paying basis and every bank shows a surplus earned from operations.

Government Owns Stock.
The United States government, as of February 28, 1923, owned approximately $3,000,000 of the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks. The Farm Loan association, during the year 1922, acquired approximately $8,500,000 of Federal Land Bank stock, 25 per cent of the proceeds of which was used to retire stock owned by the government, as required by the farm loan act.

The United States treasury has purchased and now holds over $100,000,000 Federal Land Bank bonds. While these bonds are not government obligations, and are not guaranteed by the government they are the secured obligations of banks operating under federal charter with governmental supervision, on whose boards of directors the government is represented.

"LIFE OF CHRIST" SERMON SUBJECT OF EVANGELIST

Declaring that "Christ is all in all" and that he was the Father at creation, Evangelist A. S. Booth chose for the subject of his sermon Sunday night at the Rialto theater "The Life of Christ." The first word of the Bible is "in" and the last word "all," stated the evangelist. "It was the spirit of Christ that inspired all Bible writers. Christ is in every book and verse of the Scriptures."

"When the Lord came to earth in His first advent, they rejected Him and crowned Him with thorns. When He comes the second time He will wear a crown of glory. In His first advent the church was not prepared to meet Him. Though they read the Bible, they did not know the prophecies of the Word."

Mr. Booth's theme Tuesday night at the Adventist church, 131 Cherokee avenue, will be "The Bible Prophecy That Many Will Reject the Law in the Last Days."

JOSEPH R. MORRIS,
LOCAL FURNITURE
MAN, DIES SUNDAY

Joseph Robert Morris, one of the best known furniture men in the state, died at the residence, 130 Euclid avenue, Sunday night.

Mr. Morris was in the furniture business since his youth and at the time of his death was the representative of a number of prominent furniture companies.

He is survived by his widow, who was formerly Elizabeth Annand Tinsinger, of Rowden, Ga.; two daughters, Misses Ruby and Annie Morris; six sons, Robert, Ed, Ed, Ed, Ed, and Lucius Morris; one grandson, Pace Tinsinger Morris; three sisters and one brother. Mr. Morris was a member of the Inman Park Methodist church. H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Forsyth Chamber Plans to Finance Monroe Farmers

Raise Fund to Give Supplies
Without Charge If Crops Fail.

Juliette, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) Desiring to aid farmers, who are not able to finance themselves, to raise cotton, and determined that cotton, in spite of bad weather conditions, should continue to be one of the chief crops of Monroe county, the Forsyth chamber of commerce is trying to raise $25,000 to encourage the raising of cotton.

The plan is to use this money for the purchase of fertilizer, cotton seed, calcium arsenate and other necessities with the understanding that if there should be a crop failure, no repayment will be required, but if the farmers succeed with the crop, the interest material furnished will be returned with 6 per cent interest. The organization is also interested in the raising of turkeys and hogs and poultry-raising on a large scale on each farm, establishment of a modern dairy system, and building of an ice plant at Forsyth.

The chamber of commerce is planning to advertise the resources of raising on a large scale on each farm. Forsyth and Monroe county to the Monroe county farmers' association, which is being organized by the chamber of commerce, and outside capitalists will assist in the development of this section's industries.

OPEN SHOP ADVOCATE IS DUE HERE TUESDAY

Samuel M. Vaulain Will Address Local Employers
at Banquet.

Samuel M. Vaulain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive works at Philadelphia, will be the guest of the Employers' association of Atlanta on Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at a dinner to be given at the Ponce de Leon.

Mr. Vaulain is one of the largest employers of highly skilled labor in the United States and an authority on the open shop question. He will speak on the subject at the dinner, which promises to be largely attended.

George Harris, president of the local Employers' association, will act as chairman, and Thomas K. Glenn will serve as toastmaster. There will be other addresses during the evening of interest to Atlantians in general and the building industry in particular.

ALBANY CHAMBER STARTS CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS

Albany, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) A minimum of 500 memberships for the Albany chamber of commerce is the goal for which 15 well-organized teams of workers will rally forth Tuesday morning, after nearly three weeks of careful planning. The workers have announced that they will not be satisfied with the minimum number, but expect to carry the total to 600 by Friday, when the canvass will end.

The reorganization plans for the chamber of commerce, of which the membership canvass is a part, includes greatly enlarged activities, some national advertising on a three-year plan, and organized effort to bring additional manufacturers to Albany to utilize the abundant hydro-electric power that is now available.

A get-together dinner Monday night in the city armory will be "the big whistle" for the canvass beginning the following morning. Congressman James T. Begg, of Ohio, a member of the foreign relations committee of the house and one of the best known orators of his state, will be the principal speaker. Other interesting features are planned.

The active workers for the membership drive are headed by Gordon E. Reynolds, with W. L. Crawford as his assistant. Three local commanders are E. R. Clark, Thad Hutchabee and M. C. Huie, and under them are 15 captains and more than a hundred lieutenants.

Statesboro Woman Drops Dead on Way From Church Service

Statesboro, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—While returning to her home Friday night after attending revival services at the Methodist church, Mrs. Antou Horton dropped dead in front of J. A. McDougald's home on South Main street. There were several women just in front of her and one young man behind her, who rushed to her aid. She spoke only a few words. The body was shipped to Davisboro, Ga., Saturday morning.

Mrs. Horton, aged the mother of C. R. Horton, agent for the Central of Georgia railway in this city.

JOHN POWELL GIVES HIS VIEWS ON MUSIC

Pianist-Composer Plans for Dramatic Value in Operas.

John Powell, American pianist-composer, who plays Wednesday afternoon at the Woman's club auditorium, as the last artist of the Atlanta Music club's present series, has recently voiced interesting opinions on the subject of operatic music in connection with the opera on the Biblical subject of Judith and Holofernes, for which he is now writing the music, the libretto being furnished by George Harris.

"The great need of American composers is the ability to write for the stage. The Metropolitan and Chicago companies have, it is true, produced operas by Americans, but in every case, even though they may have excellent music material, they have fallen down in their lack of knowledge of stage technique."

"No matter how weak the average Italian opera may be from the standpoint of musical content, at least it possesses certain theatrical value that makes it plausible and even gripping in stage representation. For this reason, indeed, many an Italian opera has won a measure of success its music never justified."

"It is my intention, therefore, in setting the music to the Judith and Holofernes libretto, to write music that will appeal because of its theatrical qualities. This does not mean that I shall cheapen or debase the music one whit. But I shall avoid such music that has only musical value, never forgetting that after all the real purpose of music in opera is to illuminate and heighten the action of the drama."

Former Recorder's Court Clerk Forged Checks, Is Charged

J. H. McKelley, 28, of 40 Cooper street, formerly a clerk in recorder's court and in the absence of Recorder Johnson, judge pro tem, will look at the court from the other side of the bar today.

McKelley was released from police barracks on $1,000 bond Sunday night on charges of forging and passing worthless checks, following his arrest Sunday evening by Detectives Hugh T. Brown and A. G. Stone.

He is accused by the detectives of placing the fictitious name of A. A. Ashley on a check for $850, payable to cash, which, it is alleged, he persuaded a local hotel to cash.

ATLANTA VISITED BY THE GOVERNOR OF NEW MEXICO

Governor A. O. Larrazola, of New Mexico, president of the U. S. Good Roads association, and Colonel Benham Cameron, of Stargate, N. C., president of the Bankhead Highway association, spent Sunday in Atlanta on their way to Greenville, S. C., to attend the national conventions of the two organizations. They arrived Sunday morning from New Orleans where they were present at the confederate reunion last week.

With Dr. M. L. Fox, a prominent educator of Albuquerque, N. M., they were entertained Sunday night at the Druid Hills Golf club by Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Rambo, of Atlanta. They left at midnight for Greenville.

The annual convention of the U. S. Good Roads association will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, while the meeting of the Bankhead Highway association will be held on Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Albert Thornton, of Atlanta, one of the vice presidents of the national body, while unable to attend the dinner at the club Sunday night because of a slight indisposition, plans to leave for Greenville Monday morning.

Records of one or two of the heavier trials will also be heard.

Mrs. Jackson will again appear in appropriate costume for her interesting interpretation of the drama, thus adding a realistic atmosphere to the scene. Instead of the opera leading preceding the music as is the usual manner of presentation, Mrs. Jackson presents her story as the musical score is played by Mrs. Chambers at the piano.

This is the third of the Legion series, the fourth and last being Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine" on next Thursday night. These two remaining recitals will undoubtedly receive the hearty patronage that has been accorded those already given. The program begins at 8:15 p. m.

REV. J. W. BAGGARLY DIES AT RURAL HOME

Juliette, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) Rev. J. W. Baggarly, 29, died at his home near Rogers church, this county. Before he became ill several months ago, he had served churches in Jones and Twiggs counties. He is survived by his widow, father, three children, three sisters and five brothers. Funeral services were held at Russellville church by Rev. E. B. Awtry and interment was in the church cemetery.

WILL GIVE RECITAL OF 'WILLIAM TELL'

Atlanta Women Arrange
Program at Cable Hall on Tuesday Night.

A splendid program is promised for the "William Tell" opera recital Tuesday night at Cable Hall. In the series being presented by a group of patriotic Atlanta women for the benefit of Post 75, American Legion, and the constructive work it is undertaking to accomplish.

With Mrs. Charles Chalmers, pianist, and Mrs. Earl Sherwood Jackson, reader, on these occasions, a program of beauty and intellectual worth is assured for patrons of the recitals.

The finest of the passages from the Rossini opera have been selected for the singers assisting Tuesday night, among whom are Mrs. W. O. Cleary, soprano, and A. W. Browning, tenor, two of Atlanta's leading musicians. Records of one or two of the heavier trials will also be heard.

MILLTOWN IS GROWING NEW COUNT INDICATES

Milltown, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—The consolidated returns of the Lanier county school census made public today by County School Commissioner J. C. Williams, show that there were 1004 school children in the county, which is an increase over the last census. Of this number 979 are white and 625 are colored.

At the time taking the school census, Rev. W. Harvey Wages, pastor of the local Baptist church, also took the entire census of the town of Milltown, including the religious census, which tabulation gives Milltown a population of 1,000; whereas the United States census three years ago gave Milltown only 800, which indicates the growth of the town the past three years.

The South Atlanta district conference of colored Methodist churches at its closing session endorsed Rev. J. A. Hadley for secretary of the missionary department of the district, and Rev. R. H. Singleton for the bishopric to be elected in Louisville, Ky., in May, 1924.

The conference raised more than $2,500 for Morris Brown university for extension of its work. Rev. J. A. Hadley, presided.

FORD WHITE HOUSE BOOM IS FORESEEN

Expect Formal Launching of Presidential Campaign for Auto Manufacturer Early in June.

Chicago, April 15.—Although moving along just now in a quiet and unobtrusive way, the Ford presidential boom is expected to be formally launched with a loud report on or about the first of June.

Friends of Henry Ford have been busy for several weeks, testing the popularity of the multimillionaire automobile manufacturer in all parts of the country; this is being accomplished principally by means of pledge cards; the card circulators claim that they have established the existence of a strong Ford-for-president sentiment among the nation's wage-earners.

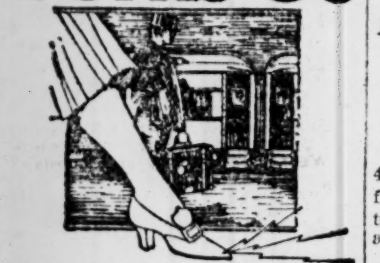

This Ford boom apparently is being managed with the utmost precision and efficiency. Every precaution being taken to insure success, and the Ford backers are anxious not to start off something with a great deal of preliminary clatter which will end in a fizz, as have other presidential booms. They realize that if Ford, who is politically inexperienced, is to be elected, it will have to be accomplished by the people themselves and not by party managers who prefer to shunt Ford onto a sidetrack.

Busy But Silent.
The extent of this sentiment, the ramifications of the organization leading Ford, its origin, and the identity of its principal backers, however, are difficult to determine. The Ford presidential league, which has established national headquarters here, appears to be very busy, but is saying practically nothing.

Only an occasional surface break in this policy of silence indicates the widespread scope of the movement, and these to all outward appearances have been spontaneous outbursts independent of any national program. More than 6,000 Nebraska residents signed a petition requesting the secretary of state to place Ford's name on the ballot as presidential candidate of the progressive party. Ford organizations, the first of which appeared among Ford's fellow townsmen at Dearborn, Mich., have also drawn public attention at such widely separated points as Hartford, Conn., Indianapolis and Hialeah, Fla., and most of the Ford-for-president workers appear anxious to be quoted on their activities, but it is learned that they expect Ford, who has thus far given no indication that he seeks the white house, to respond to the "public clamor" as soon as he can be shown that it exists. There is little likelihood, they say, that the republicans will nominate Ford, but the democrats may and if they don't, it is claimed, Ford will be induced to run on a third party ticket.

Polling of some large factories have obtained pledge cards from more than 50 per cent of the workers, it is said, and the results of these guarded tests of sentiment are highly encouraging. For the present, however, the figures and deductions from these tests are being kept a secret.
But in about six weeks, the Ford-for-president leaders hope, the time will be ripe to show Ford and the whole country that a large proportion of the voters want him as the nation's chief executive. This will come in the form of a public announcement, it is understood, which is predicted may change the face of the entire political situation. Until then the Ford backers will continue to maintain their profound silence.

Newlywed Osers Buy Large Farm In Switzerland

Mr. and Mrs. Max to Divide Time Between Switzerland and U. S.

Geneva, April 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Max Oser have bought a large farm near Yverdon, at the southwest end of Lake Neuchâtel in the Canton of Vaud, Switzerland.
They will spend six months of the year on the farm and the remainder of their time in the United States.

CHAIRMAN NAMED FOR COMMITTEE ON COAL SURVEY

New York, April 15.—Appointment of W. L. Abbott of Chicago as chairman of a committee to make a nationwide coal survey in cooperation with the United States coal commission and the department of commerce was announced yesterday by the Federated American Engineering Society. Other members of the committee, which will include engineers representing all sections of the country, will be named in the near future, and Mortimer C. Wiley, dean of the University of Michigan, president of the federation.

Decision to undertake the survey was reached by the executive board of the American Engineering Council, executive body of the federation, at a recent meeting in Cincinnati. Chairman John Hays Hammond of the coal commission said he and his associates were relying upon engineering methods, and asked the co-operation of the engineers of the country in the effort to solve the coal problem.

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL FATALLY SHOTS FORMER BOARDER

Chicago, April 15.—Frank Toronto, 40 years old, who had just arrived from Philadelphia, was shot and killed today by Anna Diodona, 15 years old, at the entrance of her home.
The girl told the police that Toronto had attacked her three years ago while he was a boarder in the home of her father and then had fled to Philadelphia.

When he returned today, Anna saw him as he approached the house and as he knocked at the door, she fired five shots from a pistol into his body. Toronto died while being taken to a hospital.
"My mother was dead," she told the police, "and I did not dare to tell my father. But I always kept the pistol near and when I saw Toronto at the door, I took aim through the open window of my room and fired."

BLAME CROSSED WIRES FOR BIG STABLE FIRE

Burlington, N. J., April 15.—Crossed electric wires were believed today to have caused the fire in one of the stables of the Ranocosa stock farm last night when many valuable horses, including the stallion Incheape, were killed. Henry W. Tress, manager of the farm, declared he could find no evidence of incendiary. Harry F. Sinclair, Jr., owner of the farm, refused to make an estimate of his loss.
In addition to Incheape, Cirrus, a stallion, and former racer, 38 mares, including 21 former racers, were killed. The mares were: Miss Crittenden, Passing Showers, Little White Silk, Autumn Second, Royal Ensign, Sweep, Lingette, Wedding Cake, Fanfare, Onely, Dode, Broom Pace, Restraint, Budona, Topela, Nazappa, Arrabelle, Nightmare, Florenza and Hivale.
Twelve foals, six, two and three-year-old horses and Cherryola, famous mare and mother of Purchase, the one stallion saved, were also killed.

HIGHWAY MEETING FOR CHATTANOOGA

Board of Directors Change Plans Owing to Inability to Attend Convention.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 15.—Announcement was made here today by Judge M. Allison, president of the Dixie Highway association, that the board of directors would meet in Chattanooga May 17-19, instead of at Sault Ste Marie, Mich., originally selected as the convention city. The change, it is said, was due to "advice from directors that the meeting would not be able to attend if the sessions were held at Sault Ste Marie. Probability that the highway association will take up the question of revoking a number of designations of Dixie highway sections where counties and organizations have failed to live up to their agreements with the board, is expected to attract a large attendance. Governors of several states will probably be invited to the meeting, especially those of Kentucky, Georgia and Tennessee, as much remains to be done on the Dixie highway in these three commonwealths. Director Frank R. Shotts, of Miami, has expressed a desire to bring the governor of Florida to the meeting and an invitation will be extended to that executive.

A movement is under way to secure the attendance of Frank Page, highway commissioner of North Carolina, with the view of getting firsthand data concerning what is being done in the Tar Heel state to create a real highway system, a state-wide road building program having been launched there. The question of securing the passage of a seventy-five million dollar road bill in Tennessee, recently defeated by the legislature, will be discussed at the coming meeting, and the Tennessee Good Roads association will probably appear before the Dixie highway directors.

President Allison will go to Cincinnati this week to confer with a committee of the automobile club of that city with a view of stimulating interest in certain sections of the Dixie highway route, which plans may be made to focus in the May meeting here. The purpose of the Cincinnati trip, according to a letter to President Allison, is to "stimulate interest in the Dixie highway, especially that part in Tennessee and Kentucky where the roads have not been rebuilt, and to co-operate with the association in arousing interest along the line from Miami to Sault Ste Marie."

NORTH DAKOTA SELECTS COUNSEL IN TABERT CASE

Tallahassee, Fla., April 15.—G. Grimsom, a state's attorney, and W. J. Kueshaw, circuit judge of North Dakota, today were appointed by Governor Nestos of North Dakota as assistant attorneys general to represent that state in the investigation now being conducted by the Florida legislature into the death of Martin Tabert of Munich, N. D.
Governor Nestos' appointment came by telegram from Butte Creek, Michigan, where the chief executive is spending a few days. Mr. Grimsom and Judge Kueshaw have in their possession evidence which was presented to the North Dakota legislature, resulting in that body adopting a resolution requesting this state to investigate the conviction, leasing and death of Tabert.

Forty Guests Trapped In New York Hotel By Early Morning Fire

New York, April 15.—Several persons were injured and several others had narrow escapes when fire trapped forty guests at the Penn hotel, a three-story building in East 42nd street early today.
The blaze, starting in a haberdashery shop on the ground floor, rapidly sent dense clouds of smoke into the upper stories and forced the guests to take refuge on window ledges. Several men and women leaped from second and third floor windows after throwing their mattresses to the street.
Damage was estimated at $25,000.

Hold Burial Services For Fourteenth Victim Of Krupp Disorders

Essen, April 15.—Burial services were held today for the fourteenth victim of the shooting by the French of workmen at the Krupp works, a fortnight ago. Many of the man's fellow workmen and members of the Krupp directorate and city officials attended the funeral.
The other persons wounded during the disorder at the Krupp works are reported to be out of danger.

MRS. E. M. McCOWAN, 82, IS DEAD AT FORSYTH

Juliette, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) Mrs. I. E. McCowan, 82, of Forsyth, is dead. Before her marriage in 1836 to the late Rev. D. G. McCowan, she was Miss Effie Fletcher, of Sumpter county. She had been a resident of this county since her marriage. She is survived by one daughter and three sons. Mrs. M. E. Shi, of Marion; J. D. McCowan, of Atlanta, and R. G. and J. H. McCowan, of Forsyth. The funeral was conducted at Smyrna church, of which she was a member, and interment was in the McCowan cemetery at the old McCowan home.

ROMANS TO INCREASE CHAMBER COMMERCE

Rome, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—A hundred men, old and young, gave evidence of the new Rome spirit at the team instruction meeting of the chamber of commerce at the auditorium last night, unanimously expressing belief that the campaign for a greater chamber of commerce would be a success. The meeting indicated that the team organization is a reality, and that it is ready to go to work on the community-wide canvass.

Germany to Fight Battle to Finish In Ruhr District

Hugo Stinnes Declares French Need of Fuel Will Decide Issue.

Berlin, April 15.—The struggle in the Ruhr is a "war for coke," and France will yield first because she needs fuel worse, Hugo Stinnes, Ruhr industrial baron, declared Sunday.
Stinnes' summary marked the attitude of German officials who declared that while they intended to appeal for American sympathy this week, they had no intention of submitting to the French.
"This is a war of coke," Stinnes said. "We think France needs badly worse than we do—to end the war, and this belief will help us to hold out."
According to Stinnes, German big business intends to fight to the last mark along the battle lines already begun. He foresees that French industrialists will force their government to withdraw from the Ruhr so they may obtain coke which has been cut off during the invasion.

No Surrender.
Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno reiterated that the German government will make no surrender to the French and Belgians. He intends shortly to receive American press representatives and outline the position of the cabinet toward the Ruhr crisis.

His picture will be as follows:
First—Germany offered France in good faith a guarantee of security a Rhineland anti-war pact.
Second—Germany presented to the entente in January written proposals for reparations amounting to 20,000,000,000 gold marks behind which big business was pledged. The government also offered to fortify these "not only the anti-war pact, but to hypothecate the necessary securities for loans to cover the 20,000,000,000 Hughes' suggestion."
Third—Germany offered to let an international commission, such as Secretary of State Hughes of America suggested, fix a reasonable reparations figure by which Germany agrees to abide.

Second—Chancellor Cuno will claim that he has exhausted by these offers any step that could be taken by Germany. France, having rejected all these proposals, is pledged to continue to resist any further proposals until she has been forced to fight to the last mark.
Cuno therefore proposes to stand out. The temporary deflection of the socialist, who advise further concessions, by the government, feels secure here. He declares confidently that he will sign no armistice that Germany will be able to fulfill, holding that the nation's credit in the world would be further reduced thereby.

DEACON WILLIAMS CALLED BY DEATH WHILE IN PARIS

Paris, April 15.—The Right Reverend Mott Williams, died at mid-night Saturday in the American hospital here. He had been ill two weeks. He was called by death while in the American church of The Holy Trinity, which Bishop Williams accepted a month ago as his cathedral for the American Episcopal churches in Europe.
Bishop Williams was born in Fort Hamilton, New York, in February 1857. He has been in charge of the American Episcopal churches in Europe for seven years.

TWIGGS SCHOOL MEET WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Jeffersonville, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—The Twiggs county school meet to determine the winners of the various athletic and educational events in the public schools was held at this place Friday under the direction of Professor Howard, superintendent of the Jeffersonville High school, assisted by D. G. McGee, county farm agent, and Mrs. Carswell, home demonstration agent. The winners of the events will be given prizes by the Atlanta Athletic association, and some of them will represent Twiggs county at the twelfth district school meet, to be held at Abbeville, April 20.

Miss Elizabeth Griffin, of Jeffersonville, was the winner in the expression contest. In the boys' declamation contest, Baker Griffin, Jeffersonville, was winner with his declamation, "The American Republic." Mary Reid Norris, of the local high school, won the spelling contest. The music contest was won by Lois Vaughn, of Jeffersonville.

Jack Vaughn and Tom Jones, of Twiggs High school; Johnny Myrick, William Elmore, and Earl S. Griffin, of Bullard school, and Rob Snapp, of Twiggs High school, won the athletic contests.

FARMERS' UNION MEET HELD IN MACON TODAY

Barrett, Taylor, Brown and Mills Will Address Convention.

Macon, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) The annual convention of the Georgia Farmers' union will convene here at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the Lanier hotel. Among those who will address the convention will be C. S. Barrett, president National Farmers' union; Jacob H. Taylor, editor Farmers' National magazine, Washington, D. C., and J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, and president J. J. Mills.
In his address Mr. Mills will tell of the growth of the Farmers' union in this state during the past year, as well as report on the activities of the business institutions of the organization.

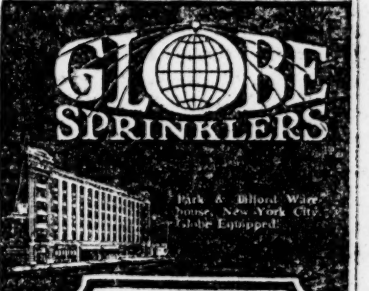

There are several hundred locals of the Farmers' union in Georgia and it is expected that each local and county union will send delegates to the convention.
Among the important matters that will come before the convention will be discussions on co-operative marketing for farm products, legislative matters of interest to the union and the establishment of the proposed co-operative fire insurance company by the members of the organization in this state. A number of states have already organized such co-operative companies, and their outstanding insurance today amounts to approximately $100,000,000.

PROPOSED VISIT OF LLOYD GEORGE IS LONDON TOPIC

London, April 15.—Newspapers here are speculating on the object of David Lloyd George's proposed visit to the United States and Canada next fall.

The former premier will sail in September, according to the news of the World, which is owned by Lloyd Riddle, the former premier's intimate friend.

He will speak, it is declared, at New York, Chicago, Washington, Montreal, Toronto and other places, and will attend the national exhibition at Toronto.
It will be Lloyd George's first trip across the Atlantic since 1902. It will be the first time that a former premier has visited America in an official capacity, with full liberty to speak his mind on political matters.

METHODIST CHURCHES HAVE BIG ATTENDANCE

Dean of Theology to Conduct Revival Services at Emory.

One of the high tides of the present revival was reached Sunday in the Methodist churches here when the attendance swelled to overflowing in practically all of the churches conducting special services.
Rev. C. A. Norton, pastor of Stewart Avenue Methodist church, assisted by Evangelist McDaniel, conducted morning and night services Sunday, both of them being largely attended. A feature of the revival is the singing by the Mackey sisters of New Cumberland, W. Va., who attracted much attention during the North Georgia conference in Wesley Memorial church two years ago.
Dr. F. N. Parker, dean of the school of theology, Emory university, will conduct the revival services in the university chapel beginning today and continuing through April 22. The Emory Wheel, a student publication, says: "In Dr. Parker, the Y. M. C. A. has selected a man who is familiar with the problems of the average college student."
Revival services will continue throughout the week at Center street and St. Luke's Methodist churches, as well as several others. Success has marked them all, according to reports received.

non-partisan league of which only the shell remains and that made up of local groups. The truth is that the simple North Dakota farmer is still clinging to the future belief that the federal government should do something for him and if it refuses he will make the state government do it. The political leaders of both parties seeking votes rather than permanent advantages to the state encourage the delusions of the farmer instead of trying to convince him of the fallacy of them. In time the farmer will catch up with the politician and punish him for under present conditions no politician can long hold the favor of the hood-winked agriculturists.

How badly the North Dakota farmer has been fooled by the politicians who have preyed on him is clearly established by the record of the non-partisan league, to which he gave loyal support for seven years. Read this first hand and direct testimony of Townley, the creator of the N. P. L., who only a few years ago was hailed as an agrarian.

"We succeeded in getting control of North Dakota state government by the enterprise was not successful. We strove manfully but I for one became convinced that there are forces in the state which make it impossible for state enterprises to succeed. Some of my friends, most of them I fear, still cling to their old beliefs. They think that if the state cannot succeed the federal government can. I don't.

"I believe the only way price fixing on farm products can be successfully accomplished in America is by the farmers themselves. My motto is each man for his trade and the name of the non-partisan league is a disgrace to the name of the farmer.

Served Prison Term.

Mr. Townley, who enjoyed automatic power over some of the most important agencies of the state, is now trying to organize farmers in other states on the cooperative basis. Mr. Townley's downfall was due to his opposition to the war program of the government, for which he served a short term in prison for violating the Minnesota loyalty act. He was released from prison and now regards him as an apostate and set up Senator Robert M. La Follette as his new hero in Mr. Townley's place. Mr. La Follette makes a strong and sympathetic appeal to North Dakota agriculturists and radical labor units, even the promoters of the independent voters league which represents the conservative wing of the public party in the state admits that Mr. La Follette would run away with the republican primaries under present conditions. Added to the vote support of Wisconsin and Minnesota Mr. La Follette would thus have in the neighborhood of 60 votes.

President Harding has few supporters outside of the official and contingent in his own party. The reasons there are many. The North Dakota view is that President Harding has little sympathy with the troubles of the agriculturists and the so-called progressive element in this party. The agitators charge him with being too friendly with the railways and Wall street any place not his shoulders the responsibility for continuing European turmoil which shuts out American products. The conservative pronounce him a "fellow" and then stop talking about him. Hiram Johnson seems to hold the affection of a small group in the middle ground but for Harding would receive Mr. La Follette would get three.

The hope of the industrial and agricultural socialists, the pacifists, the protectionist, substantial units of labor, including and many followers of I. W. W. doctrine seems to center in the Wisconsin radical leader. If they don't have him as the regular candidate a great many would undoubtedly follow him out of that party. On the democratic side there is no outstanding figure. Mr. Wilson, many admirers who would be influenced by his wishes.

This is not true of any other man. Mr. McAdoo is not seriously considered. Henry Ford is his grip on the North Dakota agriculturists is substantial and positive. Even non-partisan leaguers of pronounced republican tendencies are in some degree favor. There is little sentiment in favor of the league of nations, with respect to which North Dakota opinion has not changed in the last three years. There appears to be only casual interest in the president's suggestion that the United States become a member of the high court of justice. The war and dry issues don't cut much of a figure one way or the other in North Dakota politics. The foreign element makes its own bootlegging flourishes on the Canadian border and an ample supply of wet goods finds its way into the interior despite the fact that North Dakota has been dry since its admission to statehood.

Klan Spreads.

The Ku Klux Klan has spread its insidious tentacles into the isolated parts of the state principally in the eastern section. J. F. A. O'Connor, democratic candidate for governor against Lynn Frazier, recalled non-partisan league governor, was beaten by the Ku Klux Klan. Mr. O'Connor is a Catholic. The Klan leader deny this was the reason but it probably was. The foreign population of North Dakota which constitutes 25 per cent of the yeomanry of the state does not take kindly to the Klan program.

The recent death of J. G. Ingle, a hard-headed Norwegian farmer, served to call attention to the glaring failure of the non-partisan league. "Farmer Joe Ingle," who was a picturesque figure in the state, branded the Townley program as pure bunk and warned farmers against political charlatans, especially Townley. The accuracy of his prophecy has been confirmed by the results. One after another the socialistic and communistic projects set up by Townley are eating their heads off and into the pocketbooks of the people. Every man, woman and child in North Dakota pays $17.01 in the form of taxes which go mainly to the support of the visionary schemes set up by the non-partisan league and continued by insincere state officials because they are afraid to tell the truth. Only five states pay a higher per capita tax, and none of these possesses anything like the agricultural and industrial resources of North Dakota. Vermont pays a per capita tax of only $25.

In federal taxes, including income, North Dakota pays less than one per cent of the total. It is the state taxes that eat up the profits of the farmer even though he is favored in his respect. There is a state bank, for instance, which has only one deposit on the state. Money wrung from taxpayers is dumped into this unique financial concern by the state and poured out to pay for various non-partisan league creations. The state bank already represents a loss to the taxpayers of more than one million dollars despite the juggling of figures and shifting of balances to make it seem otherwise.

The financing of farm loans and mortgages on unproductive property has put 60 banking concerns out of business in the last two years. State taxes also go to finance a state flour mill which doesn't pay, to promote a builders' cooperative scheme which has rolled up a deficit of over two million, and a fantastic Behring Sea fishing enterprise which landed only human snickers. The widely heralded cooperative store plan promoted by the league and financed by its deluded followers has broken and is in process of liquidation.

Cost Increasing.

The cost of administering the state is steadily increasing. It has risen from 101 to 142 per cent in six years. Changes made by the legislature which recently adjourned will further increase tax burdens, according to the head of the tax department. The state needs more money to pay running expenses of what was designed to be another "perfect state" and to finance the left over schemes of a party which the farmer has left out because the North Dakota politicians who wear party brands lightly, attach a great deal of importance to the political power of the farmers, the additional burdens are put on industrial enterprises and on the citizens of cities, towns and villages.

Under the new classification real estate and public utilities are assessed at full value, personal property at 50 per cent, farm machinery at only 10 per cent, a $11,000,000 bill which will cost each taxpayer a dollar a year for several years. The admission of a banker in Bismarck that efforts to induce foreign industry to come into the state are necessary is answered by the tax bill. Few new enterprises are finding their way into North Dakota, most of them shut it. One of the most amazing features of the agricultural situation in North Dakota is the vagueness of opinion as to just what can or should be done to relieve the situation. Ignoring the man on the street the writer went to the man on the farm seeking satisfactory answers to pertinent questions. Twenty-two farmers, 16 of whom produce only grains and cereals required 22 answers, only one or two were clear-cut and comprehensive. All of the farmers interviewed agreed that the wheat business was bad and that the federal or state government should do something to relieve it. What should be done? Well, the government should fix the price of wheat to raise the return to the farmer to a level of yields in industry.

The government should guarantee the wheat farmer against loss as he alleges the government guarantees the railway against loss, incidentally the government doesn't do anything of the kind, but the radical politicians have told the farmer that it does and the railways make vague and ineffective effort to controvert the statement. Again the government should open up the foreign markets to the North Dakota wheat raiser but it should not go into the league of nations. Another agricultural view: The government should reduce the tariff on things the farmer uses.

Ignorant on Bill.

Only three of the farmers interviewed actually knew the scope of the rural credits bill passed by the last congress. Most of them had a very hazily opinion about it and little information imparted by political interpreters. Nearly all of the farmers were both skeptical and pessimistic as to the permanent effect of rural credit. Several of them did not believe the farm loan scheme will do anything to help them. They merely meant an increase in the interest on mortgage account and had to come out of the pockets of the farmer. Some of the leading business men of the state believe the railroad tropical farmer is in a fair way to recover from his grog. They base their optimism in this respect on the conviction that the North Dakota farmer is beginning to take the measure of his radical political advisors and apply the rules of common sense in seeking solution of his problems. Men of this state of mind express the opinion that if Governor Nestos, who is regarded as holding fundamentally unimpaired the real estate business, and his opportunity at the recent session of the legislature a more pronounced degree of normalcy would prevail among the farmers. The governor contented himself with steering a safe middle course, presumably due to his belief that the tide of socialism was still running strong. The governor himself is credited with the belief that a little good luck would encourage the farmer to stop chasing political rainbows. Business men of the state think "good luck" is not far away. Symptomatic of political unrest that many of the women elected to office on the non-partisan ticket in the recent county and municipal elections.

HARDING INDORSES MEMORIAL PLAN

Errors of the southern states will be present or represented and a large gathering of prominent men and women of the south and nation likewise. It is proposed at that time to announce definite plans and the program of the association and select the generals who will represent each of the southern states in the memorial bas-relief.

Business Session.

On Saturday of this week the association and its guests will hold a business session in the morning and in the afternoon they will all attend a barbecue at Stone Mountain, given under the auspices of Samuel H. Venable, at host.

The plans provide for the immediate carving of a figure of General Lee on horseback. Some idea may be gained from the magnitude of this colossal undertaking when it is stated that the height of this single figure will be at least 125 feet.

It is proposed to go forward with these plans to completion. All connected with the association express themselves very confidently that it is only a question of time when this epoch-making monument will be an accomplished fact.

'Own Your Home' Is New Slogan Of Movie Stars

Real Estate Supplants Diamonds as Means of Investment.

Hollywood, Cal., April 15.—News that the great motion picture industry is riding along with other industries on the rising wave of business prosperity, and that film stars and directors are again earning almost fabulous salaries, leads the movie fans to inquire:

"Where are all the millions that are being poured into Hollywood being spent? In dope or booze, or in sweet remembrances for the old folks and buying the baby shoes. It all depends on where you get your movie information.

The prosaic uncolored fact is that the movie people are spending the most of their money on real estate. Los Angeles is becoming and the movie people are getting in on it. They are buying for permanent investment, as well as for speculation.

Many of the beautiful stars of today are preparing for the time when they are too old to play anything but grandmother parts, and most of the older girls of today are determined that they will not play grandmother parts.

Mary and Doug Buyers.

Among the stars Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks are heavy purchasers of real estate. Ruth Roland and her divorced husband, although separated, are still united in the real estate business, and are selling a number of blocks of property which they bought in the days when it was cheap.

Agnes Ayers is a realtor on quite a considerable scale, and if she keeps doing business as at present won't have to worry about her old age (if movie stars ever have old age) no matter what happens to the studios and the pictures.

Irene Rich, who arrived in Los Angeles with $4 in her purse and a mother's "good luck" is now a real care for, has just purchased a valuable tract in the exclusive Beverly hills section.

The Christie brothers, makers of Christie comedies, and Pat Dowling, publicity director associated with them, have all made a big clean-up in Hollywood property, where the Christie Realty company is just as important a factor as the Christie studio.

Harold Lloyd was reported at the recorder's office as having purchased $45,000 worth of property in Hollywood and Beverly Hills.

Old-Time Methods.

The old-time ham and egg who leaped from one night stands to another put his money into portable wealth, usually in the form of sparklers. These were supposed to be the best insurance against the poorhouse in old ages, when they could be converted from magnificence into food and housing.

But the movie actor is anchored in Hollywood. He knows nothing of the precarious life of the one night stands or the transitory favorite of Broadway.

He buys a home, marries a divorced movie actress and becomes rooted in the soil of Hollywood. And after he has paid his lawyers and laundry men his puts his spare change into dirt—not the kind that usually appeared under Hollywood datteline.

How wonderful is the manufacture of gold and silver lace may be judged from the fact that it takes necessary the beating of two grains of metal to cover 3,000 square inches. Two miles or more of the gold wire can be drawn from a single ounce.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL REVENUE INCREASE

$7,332,321 More Operating Revenue in 1922 Credited to Freight. Passenger Trade Drops.

Chicago, April 15.—An increase of $7,332,321 in operating revenues for 1922 was announced in the 73rd annual report of the Illinois Central Railroad company, made public tonight.

There was an increase of $12,750,625 in freight revenue ascribed to the larger volume of business handled. The increase in traffic, according to the report, was offset to a considerable extent by a 10 per cent reduction in rates ordered by the interstate commerce commission.

On the other hand passenger revenue decreased $476,000 as compared with the previous year. A decline in the volume of through passenger traffic but an increase in the Chicago suburban traffic was noted. Operating expenses increased $2,276,936 during the year.

In his report to the board of directors, C. H. Markham, president, declared that the report showed a general revival in business during the latter part of the year throughout the territory served.

"The labor unrest culminating in the strike of the coal miners and later the strike of the railroad shopmen, was a disturbing factor that retarded the growth of business," he added.

A decrease of $1,809,470, or 8.47 per cent, in maintenance of way and structures expenses, was ascribed to decreased wages, reductions in costs of materials and supplies used and a decrease in the renewal of bridge and switch ties due to inability to obtain full requirements.

An increase of $1,644,969 in maintenance of equipment expenses was declared due to increased depreciation charges by reason of additional equipment acquired, an increase in charges for equipment retired, and additional expenses incurred by reason of labor trouble.

In Grandmother's Day

WHEN grandmother kept house, Monday and Tuesday were washing and ironing days. Friday and Saturday were for housecleaning and beating the rugs. A lot of time was lost in cooking, washing the dishes and other household chores.

Today the up-to-date housekeeper's washing is done before Monday noon. Electric irons speed Tuesday into a couple of hours. Grandmother never imagined that meals could be prepared so rapidly, or that dish-washing could be disposed of in such short order. She would have marveled at the effectiveness of vacuum cleaners, better cleansers and the many household helps designed to lighten, quicken and improve the work.

That is what advertising means to women today. It has brought them countless appliances which help in their work, better conditions in their homes, add to their pleasure and increase their interest in life.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

ANNOUNCES THE

NATIONAL Slogan and Trade-Mark CAMPAIGN

$21,000 IN CASH PRIZES

Cash In on the Advertisements You Have Read

Daily for a long while you have consciously and unconsciously been reading advertisements. Now is your chance to cash in on those you have read.

Look at the slogans and trade-marks on this page. Do you recall what they advertise?

Then all you have to do is to name the products and the manufacturers to which these slogans and trade-marks refer, and write in as few words as possible about one of them, as described in the first rule elsewhere on this page. Then a BIG CASH PRIZE may be yours.

READ CAREFULLY

This is the plan: Name the products represented by the slogans and trade-marks published on this page, giving also the names of the manufacturers, and write about one of the products as stated in the rules. If your answer is awarded first prize, you will receive $50.00. There are eleven other prizes ranging from $5.00 to $40.00. However, the Atlanta Constitution has arranged a Special Booster Schedule whereby you can win additional and larger prizes.

How to win $200.00: If your answer is awarded first prize and you have sent in two twelve-months' subscription to the Daily and Sunday Constitution you will be qualified for the one-subscription schedule, and as a first prize winner would receive $200.00, with other prizes accordingly boosted.

How to win $400.00: If your answer is awarded first prize, and you have sent in two twelve-months' subscriptions, of which at least one is that of a new subscriber, to the Daily and Sunday Constitution, you will receive $400.00 as first prize winner, and the other prizes are also increased. More than that, by sending in two subscriptions, you will also be qualified for, and have a chance at the twelve national prizes amounting to $20,000.00.

The National Prizes: The prize-winning answers which have been accompanied by two yearly subscriptions to the Daily and Sunday Constitution will be forwarded to the Gotham Newspaper Service Corporation, as will the winners in similar campaigns being conducted by a selected list of newspapers all over the United States. Three competent judges (shortly to be announced) who have no connection with any of the co-operating newspapers, advertisers, or the Gotham Newspaper Service Corporation, will judge these answers, according to the fifth rule, as outlined elsewhere on this page, and name twelve national prize-winners, who will be awarded the twelve national prizes.

$20,000.00 in National Cash Prizes

These prizes will be awarded in addition to the prizes given by The Constitution to the best of all the prize-winning answers received by the newspapers co-operating in this National Slogan and Trade-Mark Campaign. To be eligible for the national prizes, the answers must be accompanied by two annual subscriptions* to the Atlanta Constitution.

MAKE ALL CHECKS, MONEY ORDERS, ETC., PAYABLE TO ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Payment of All National Prizes Bonded by National Surety Co., New York, N. Y., the World's Largest Surety Company

THIS IS ALL YOU HAVE TO DO

First. Give the number of each of the Slogans and Trade-Marks appearing on this page, and name any one product represented by each Slogan and Trade-Mark, and give the names of the manufacturers of such products.

Then, using the fewest number of letters (letters here refer to letters of the alphabet) making words, (words here mean words found in the 1922 edition of Webster's New International Dictionary) and forming a statement, in which the name of the product and the name of the manufacturer of such product are both used (the manufacturer's name) will be considered "correct" in quoting the name as used in any advertising by that manufacturer; the product will be considered "correct" if the contestant uses the name used by the manufacturer in any advertising; EITHER:

a. Tell why you prefer to use any product to which any one of the Slogans or Trade-Marks represented on this page refers.

b. Tell what you consider the best advertising idea to be used by any one of the manufacturers for any product to which the Slogan or Trade-Mark of such manufacturer as shown on this page refers.

(The letters used in naming the manufacturer and the product will not be counted. In other words, the names of the manufacturer and the product selected by the contestant will be excluded when the letters are counted. Abbreviations, except in the name of the manufacturer and the product, will not be permitted. If a hyphenated word is used, the hyphen will not be counted, neither will punctuation marks of any kind be counted.)

Second. Any man, woman or child, who is not an employee of The Constitution, or a member of an employee's family, may submit an answer. IT COSTS ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO TRY.

Third. All answers must be postmarked not later than 6:00 p. m., Saturday, May 19, 1923. Address your answer to National Slogan and Trade-Mark Campaign, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Fourth. Answers must be written on one side of sheet only, number each page, and write your name and address in the upper right-hand corner of each sheet.

Fifth. The person sending in the answer containing the largest number of correctly named products, to which the slogans and trade-marks shown on this page refer, and the statement (a) or (b) as required in the First Rule above, using the fewest number of letters (letters here refer to letters of the alphabet) making words, (words here mean words found in the 1922 edition of Webster's New International Dictionary) and forming a statement, in which the name of the product and the name of the manufacturer of such product are both used, will win the first prize, the next, the second prize, and so on until all the prizes offered have been awarded.

In the event of a tie for any prize offered, a prize identical with that tied for will be given each tying entrant.

Sixth. Candidates may co-operate in answering but only one prize will be awarded to any one household, nor will more than one prize be awarded to one group outside of any household, who have worked together.

Seventh. There are three schedules of prizes. For those who accompany their answers by a subscription to the local papers, the local prizes range from $12.00 to $200.00, and where two subscriptions are sent in, the local prizes range from $25.00 to $400.00. In addition, two subscription prize winners are eligible for the national prizes ranging from $50.00 to $5,000.00. Those who do not send in a subscription are eligible for local prizes from $5.00 to $50.00.

Eighth. Calvin Stanford, Miss Myra Scott and R. Winston Harvey, who have no connection with The Constitution or with the Gotham Newspaper Service, will be the local judges in this campaign. They will judge the answers submitted and will make the awards. The awards will be based on the correct answers to the slogans and trade-marks, and the best ideas on (a) or (b) described in the first rule above. For the national prizes two yearly subscriptions to The Daily and Sunday Constitution must also be attached. All entrants agree to accept the decisions of the judges as final and conclusive.

Ninth. The judges will make their decisions after the close of the campaign, and the winners will be published in The Constitution as soon thereafter as possible. At the conclusion of The Constitution campaign, the prize-winning answers will be forwarded to the GOTHAM NEWSPAPER SERVICE CORPORATION, and the judging for the twelve national prizes will be made as quickly as possible. The National Prize Winners will be announced in The Constitution.

Tenth. It is agreed by the entrants that all or any part of essay, article, or suggestion submitted by them may be used without remuneration.

*Two new or one old and one new. Two old subscriptions will not count.

JIL-BETT

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

While he pondered as to whether he should awaken the old man or wait patiently for him to drift back from the land of dreams, Bannock, as though sensing another's presence, slowly awakened.

He passed his hands over his eyes jerkily, as though not quite sure whether or not his vision was playing him a trick.

Staples advanced, saying: "I think I have the pleasure of addressing Mr. Bannock, the well-known landlady."

The old man rose tottering to his feet, staring at the stranger, drawing his right hand slowly over his forehead, as though to brush the cobwebs from his brain and sight.

It was not until Staples had spoken a second time that he collected his dazed, scattered senses.

"Yes, I am Daniel Bannock; what do you want of me?" he asked abruptly.

Staples sat down on the doorstep, uninvited, beside him as he resumed his seat, leaning over, picking up the broken pieces of the clay pipe, regarding them ruefully.

Slowly he explained the business which had brought him to the other side of the world to him.

When he exhibited the almost priceless ruby the years seemed suddenly to fall from the old man, and he appeared to be once again Bannock, the great landlady, whose skill and fame had been world-wide. The blood surged up into the pallid, wasted cheeks, the dull old eyes glowed again with fires very like the spark of youth.

He touched the splendid ruby with a tenderness that was like a caress. Looking at him, Staples was reminded of the application, "old wine in new bottles," and awaited his decision with the utmost impatience and anxiety as to whether he would undertake the engraving of the word "Mirzaph" upon its shimmering surface.

He agreed with Staples that it would be a most hazardous undertaking. To the old man, so versed in the work of precious gems, it seemed an unpardonable folly. There would be 50 chances of failure against one of success.

Even in the face of this discouragement Staples urged, assuring him that in undertaking the work, he was not for life would be assured, whether success or failure resulted.

Removing a belt he wore, he showed the old man a thousand dollars in gold, which he was prepared to pay down at the commencement of the work, and a draft for four thousand additional on the Bank of England when it was completed.

"You mean, should it prove successful?" queried Bannock.

Staples nodded, exclaiming: "How can you refuse it, man? He put his hands on the old landlady's shoulders, looking eagerly, earnestly down into the withered old face whose features were working convulsively, indicating the mental struggle he was undergoing.

"This may be the last time fortune will knock at your door," added Staples as a last argument.

With a strength such as he had not known for years, Daniel Bannock rose to his feet, stretched out his hands, saying: "All you say is true; I have no right to turn aside the wonderful good fortune which has come to me in my old age, at a time when the most expert in my craft are considered down and out. For my little Jil-Bett's sake—she's my granddaughter, after all—I will undertake the task and accomplish it, if it costs my life."

As he spoke he bared his right arm. Staples noted that the trembling hand he had been worrying over quite disappeared. It was as though the old landlady had taken a long draught from the fountain of youth.

"I need not warn you to keep the transaction in secret, and the rules carefully concealed," he cautioned, as he placed Bannock's receipt for the jewel and the money carefully away in his belt. It was agreed that the work should be completed within three weeks—four at latest. Staples announced he would return for it in person.

The transaction settled, Daniel Bannock entertained him until it was quite time for him to return to the boat, with his wonderful experiences when he was the most expert near-diver of his time. Taking him within, he showed him monster stuffed fish that occupied the entire side of the wall, measuring as it did fifteen feet or more in width. Staples listened with interest to the story of his encounter with it. He was young then with the strength of a lion. One day, when he had nearly filled his basket, he became suddenly aware of a huge black cloud which blotted out the sun. Looking up, he found himself confronted with this one of the most dreaded monsters of the deep sea.

There was never a more exciting, blood-curdling story than Bannock's recital of the terrific battle which ensued. The monster had marked him as its victim. Had he not had on the diving dress, which they had fairly forced him to use, and experiment with, there would have been recorded another tragedy in the dark abyss of the ocean's depths.

He had fought desperately with his knife, and was just collapsing when he was hoisted up—the monster still clinging to him.

In the encounter one of his knees had been so badly crushed that his diving days from that hour were past.

Almost as interesting were his descriptions of hair-breadth experiences he had passed through in guarding jewels that had been entrusted to him.

Staples knew he had no need to warn him to be still more careful of the magnificent ruby entrusted to him.

He was just in time to catch the same outgoing steamer, which had loaded up and was about to draw her gangplank up, as he reached the wharf. She steamed down the bay, and as the twilight fell entered the ocean. By the time a young moon had fixed itself in the night sky, and the stars had come forth, glinting the waves with a thousand arrow-marks, the Arabian coast had faded from view.

The very wind that wafts us toward the port.

May dash up on the shelves—the steersman's part is vigilance, blow it rough—or smooth."

Bannock was pacing to and fro for the last hour, wondering what was detaining Jil-Bett, on this night of all others, when he had such wonderful long and earnestly whether he should go in search of her or wait her coming.

All unconscious of the anxiety of her grandfather, on this particular night of all others, Jil-Bett had stopped at the Mudge's on her way home to change the dress she had worn that day to the hospital—a borrowed one from Mrs. Mudge—and to try on one that good woman was making for her to replace the native dress she had always been satisfied with until now.

"I want to have clothes like the wives and daughters of the officials wear," she confided to Mrs. Mudge. "A pretty white cotton, with nice flounces edged in red, and stockings and slippers, instead of bare feet and limps."

The heard the girl speak so much and so enthusiastically of the handsome stranger at the hospital she had just met, that she was sure Jil-Bett was longing to look like the girls in the English colony, and pleasing in his eyes. She was not surprised at this request; indeed, she had been expecting it for some time.

After she had beheld herself in Mrs. Mudge's gown, Jil-Bett thought determined never to go back to the old way of garb when not pearl-diving.

Mrs. Mudge was left with the needle. She had fashioned from plain cotton sheeting a dress over which the girl went into raptures.

"I copied it from the one that one of the governor's daughters was wearing," she admitted. "I am sure one will mind; indeed, they are most anxious that the women and young girls of Kutah should dress as the people of far-off England do. You will see that they will be very pleased with you in this," holding it up at arm's length for Jil-Bett to admire.

"This with a couple of strands of your pearls, will make you a very beautiful young lady. I should not be surprised if you will want to give up diving next."

"That I can never do," declared Jil-Bett decisively. "You know we are very poor indeed, and we depend upon the money we live since grandfather is no longer able to get anything to do at his trade."

"The life and ability of a diver, either man or woman, is short at the best," Jil-Bett said. "What will you do when that occupation fails you, dearie?"

"I will do as you are doing, Mrs. Mudge, sew shirts for the natives to suit the governor's daughter."

"You will perhaps end by marrying one of the Arabs, providing Ben-Ali does not force you into a union when he returns."

"Never!" Never!" cried Jil-Bett with a shudder. "I will never marry one whom I do not love."

She crept up to Mrs. Mudge, laying her head in her lap, and murmured: "Tell me about love, Mrs. Mudge."

"I want to know if it is true that every girl meets some one man and—life is never complete until it is his; and one fact is always before her in her dreams, and she would almost give up her life for him—only great happiness being near him—just being where he is."

"Heaven bless the child," murmured Mrs. Mudge, gathering the girl closer in her arms, "who would have thought such fancies were in her dear little head?"

Aloud she said: "You never had such ideas until the stranger came down at the hospital came into your life, did you?"

Jil-Bett could not, or would not, answer.

"It is not wisest or best for a girl to let her heart go out to a man of whom she knew absolutely nothing," she remarked.

Jil-Bett lifted her face from her lap, looking up into her face. "Now you are talking along the lines that grandfather does. He remembers nothing of love—how should he?—he is old, and the forgotten is long, long ago. I have read all the books over in the library—the story of Juliet and Romeo—and—"

The entrance of Mudge cut short the conversation.

"We will resume the conversation the next time you come over, dearie," she whispered as she kissed the girl good-night.

Still lingering on the doorstep she looked up at the bright stars that gemmed the blue arched dome above her, murmuring:

"Oh, fair young mother, if you were only here with your Jil-Bett you would tell me if it is right or wrong to think so constantly of Jack. Oh, mother! Angel mother! What would I do if he were ever to go away and I should see him no more? Did you have such thoughts about my father?"

But the gleaming stars made her no answer.

There was another and quite important matter which troubled Jil-Bett's heart, and which she meant to confide to Mrs. Mudge, and that was that she had heard that one of the governor's beautiful daughters had been visiting the hospital, taking a great interest in her Jack.

Jil-Bett wondered her way home, wondering what her grandfather would say when he saw the pretty white dress and heard of her determination to dress like the daughters of the officials, who had clothes sent to them from Paris and London.

She knew she would be upbraided for staying out so late. As she reached the door she was startled by the sound of a sob from within. She entered hurriedly, surprising her grandfather, who was on his knees before the lapidary bench, weeping as men seldom weep in a lifetime.

In the greatest of alarm she ran to his side, crying: "Oh, grandfather, I am here! Your own Jil-Bett! Tell me, are you ill?"

She was almost stricken dumb at the sight of the face he turned toward her. It was changed—radiant, with a crimson flush overspreading it. He sprang to his feet with an alacrity that almost took her breath away.

Catching her in his arms, he strained her to his breast, sobbing out brokenly and in intense excitement: "Oh, Jil-Bett! This is a great, great day for us! Jil-Bett, my little girl, something so wonderful has happened that I will find it difficult to make you understand or believe it. A miracle has taken place. We are no longer poor and starving. We are rich. Among the best off in Kutah tonight."

"It will be for you, little Jil-Bett. They say the old cannot come back, so what they could in their prime; that their usefulness is over. But that is not true. I have come back, child—raised you in a single hour from poverty to riches! I, the old man they have laughed and scoffed at—"

"Stop grandfather!" commanded Jil-Bett, disentangling herself with difficulty from his clinging arms. "God pity us both! I see what has happened. The dope has driven you mad at last!"

"The dope!" echoed Bannock. "I had quite forgotten it, Jil-Bett. I shall take some now, then I shall be more able to tell you the wonderful thing that has happened."

"The wonderful dreams you have had," she corrected with a bitter sigh, dashing the tears from her eyes. "Come, grandfather, forget the dope, and I will make you some strong, fine coffee. So strong it will stir the blood in your veins as though it were the governor's daughter."

He jerked away from her detaining hand angrily, pulling out the drawer of the bench, pointing to the pile of shining gold.

"That does not look much like a dream, does it, girl? You see it is a glorious reality! Touch it, Jil-Bett! Why are you staring at it in that way?"

Jil-Bett caught him by the arm, looking down in horror into his face. "Where did you get it?" she whispered hoarsely. "How did you come by it? You must answer me!" Very stern was her shrill voice.

"I did not steal it, Jil-Bett."

She shook his arm in great affliction. "I am asking you how it came to be here! Who does it belong to? Oh, grandfather, I implore you to keep nothing back from me!"

She caught her breath hard, murmuring: "We are indeed very poor. There were times when there was not enough for the two of us to eat, and I have gone to bed supperless, hungry. But I never let you know."

Through it all we have been honest."

The old man fell back in a paroxysm of hysterical laughter, intermingled with sobs which he was powerless to control.

Jil-Bett sank down on her knees beside him, weeping the bitterest tears she had ever shed in all her young life. A thousand disturbing thoughts flashed through her mind, and through them all was the one fearful query: How did her grandfather come by that heap of gold?

She sprang from her knees, confronting her grandfather sternly: "You must return that money to its rightful owner," she said decisively. "I will work all my life for you; give me every penny I earn; work as I have never worked before from dawn till dark, but you must promise me to give back that money. If you refuse, I will go forth from your door, never to return!"

By degrees the old man regained his composure, unfolding to her the wonderful happening of the day, showing her the contract, and the magnificent stone.

To Jil-Bett it seemed, indeed, like a miracle. Many times she went over the contract, which set forth a thousand dollars in gold had been paid down, and the balance—a fortune—which he was to receive when the work was completed. The wonderful beauty of the ruby fairly took her breath away as she gazed at it in rapt wonder.

She threw her arms about her grandfather's neck, and they wept together from sheer gladness. Then together the old man and the young girl knelt and prayed with hearts full of thanks to God.

They consulted long and earnestly over whether the word Mirzaph could be engraved, and so faintly it could not be discernable to the human eye, upon the ruby, without dire results to the jewel.

"It will take a very steady hand, grandfather," said Jil-Bett earnestly into each other's face.

"You mean I shall fail if my hand trembles?" he asked.

She bowed her head in assent. "I have gone so far on the road, child, I must have a little of the powder. But I pledge you that you shall deal it out to me, and say how much. I could not undertake the work at all if my hand and my nerves got beyond me."

She was sensible enough to realize the truth of his words. Her one thought for months had been whether or not he could break off ultimately if he could but be induced to lessen the amount of dope by degrees. This was a great point gained, that he would allow her to be the custodian of it—dealing it out to him.

Both agreed as to the care with which they must guard their great secret; also, that it was wisest and best for Jil-Bett to keep on with her pearl-diving, that no one might suspect their change of fortune.

Continued tomorrow.

Advances in Wages Occupy Attention of Financiers

New York, April 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—Additional wage advances, continued reports of green industrial activity and indecisive speculative markets, have been the chief topics of discussion in business and financial circles during the past week. As had been anticipated, the arrival of the season for additional outdoor work has resulted in increased competition for labor, the latter being the reason for the eleven per cent increase in wages in the steel industry.

In certain quarters a disposition to view recent increases with restraint was apparent, the point being made that the magnitude of the labor shortage has been the subject of a certain amount of exaggeration, the latter being prompted in some cases by a desire to sell goods ahead.

Steel Buying Slumps.
In steel it has become increasingly clear that the buying movement which started last December has come to an end. Buyers are well covered ahead and do not care to pay present high prices for more remote deliveries. Accordingly, although the steel corporation's unfilled orders showed a further gain during March, it is considered that this sort of thing may have come to an end for the time being at least. Meanwhile steel works are operating at something like two per cent capacity and are expected to do so for some months to come.

Among other record breaking industrial performances, those of the railroads and cotton mills. Railroad traffic is remaining very heavy, exceeding the movement at this season in any other year, for that matter, and the optimistic estimates recently prepared by the American Railway association.

Big Cotton Consumption.
Cotton consumption in March, as reported by the census bureau, amounted to 623,000 bales of lint, this being over 100,000 bales greater than in March a year ago and being, in fact, the greatest month's takings in history.

Despite the evidences of prosperity, speculative sentiment remained uncertain. Cotton prices fluctuated over a wide range, being helped, on the one hand, by heavy rains in parts of the growing area and being depressed, on the other, by profit-taking and short selling. Stocks were again under pressure, particularly in the early part of the week, oil shares being sold on reductions in California and eastern crudes. Bear attacks did not succeed, however, in dislodging any large amounts of stock.

Grain is Consistent.
Wheat was one commodity which displayed consistent strength. It, together with corn, probably owed part of its rise to the department of agriculture crop report. The latter placed the condition of winter wheat at 75.2 per cent which compares with an estimate of 78.4 a year ago. No official estimate has been made yet of acreage abandoned, and until this has been made, ideas of probable yield will remain sketchy. Nevertheless, a feeling is growing that the winter wheat crop will be somewhat smaller than last year's. Other factors helping grain prices are a revival of export buying and a recrudescence of speculation on the long side.

Money rates have been slightly easier, the relaxation being apparent in call and time rates. The change is explained in most quarters as being due to the passing of the April 1 influences and to a gradual drawing down of the large government deposits which resulted from the March tax collections which were bigger than had been expected. Consistent with easier money, bonds have been showing a somewhat better tone.

OLD MATTRESSES MADE INTO NEW ONES BY EMPIRE COMPANY

As a renovator of mattresses the Empire Mattress Company, located at 608 Washington street, has become known throughout this entire section as one of the best and most reliable to be found on this class of work.

It has been established a little less than two years, but in that time it has built up a large list of patrons, who know of its dependability and of the quality of the work it turns out. The company is equipped with all the latest and modern types of machinery for renovating and making practically new hundreds of old mattresses it receives from week to week.

Thirty housewives—women who have an eye to economy in their home—have learned that there is a great saving in making over old mattresses. In many houses there are found, from time to time, old mattresses that appear to have seen their best days—or nights—and offer anything but a restful night when spent upon them. These are the kind of mattresses that the Empire company takes a hold upon and returns them as a fluffy and clean and comfortable as when first taken from the original manufacturer. Their modern plan of renovation works a revelation in mattresses, and by reason of the economy in this renovation, the company is kept quite as busy as any concern in any line in this city.

The company calls for and delivers work to any part of the city. The telephone number is M. 0715, and upon request a representative will call and will give full details as to class and kind of work needed to make the mattress practically a new one, and will surprise you, perhaps, with the extremely conservative and economical price. "Satisfaction guaranteed in every transaction," is a motto which the company strictly adheres to. "Located in a clean and attractive part of the city has been a great asset to us," said an officer of the company a few days ago. "We furnish all manner of supplies for the work from material for the inside to all kinds of ticking for the covers. Atlanta housewives have lately begun to realize what a saving we can make for them, and it is getting to the point where rarely ever an old or flat mattress is discarded, but it is given to us, and when we return it its owner is surprised at the splendid and comfortable mattress we have made of it."

WINTER RESIDENTS IN THOMAS LEAVING

Thomasville, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—Thomasville's winter residents are beginning to return to their homes in the north and west, several private cars having left here this week. Some, however, will remain until later in the month.

It is realized here that Thomasville needs a tourist hotel located out of the city. Many tourists do not care to go to boarding houses or hotels in the heart of town, but would come here if there was a hotel for winter tourists near the country club or some other favorable location.

PICKERT PLUMBING SUPPLY CO. IS NOW ON CENTRAL AVE.

With the constantly increasing business which has been coming within the past few years to the Pickert Plumbing Supply company, this concern has had to seek larger and better quarters. It is now located at 117-119 Central avenue, having moved from 48 West Hunter street, some time ago.

For more than ten years this popular company has been making a splendid success of its business—making that success its guiding principle and seeing to it that its customers are always satisfied. By following closely along these lines it has built up a large business all over Georgia, and has found a number of patrons in other adjoining states of the south.

The company handles a general line of plumbing supplies, both wholesale and retail. Its president and general manager is J. H. Klier, one of the best known business men in the city and a man with long experience in the plumbing business.

A feature of the business conducted by the Pickert Plumbing company is its absolute separation from any sort of combine or co-operation with similar companies. It is operated independently upon its own bottom and its own merits. It employs a large number of people, both in its sales and shipping department, and is recognized as one of the well established and reliable concerns not only of this city, but of the south.

ARTHUR EVANS HEADS WAYNESBORO ROTARY

Waynesboro, Ga., April 15.—(Special.)—The new directors of the Rotary club elected Arthur Evans president for the next year at their meeting yesterday. Mr. Evans is a charter member of the club and is one of its most active members, having served the entire year on the boy's work committee. Past President Bill Fulcher has served during the last year and under his guidance the club has gone forward with remarkable progress.

LAURENS ILLITERATES ARE REPORTED FEW

Dublin, Ga., April 15.—Only twelve whites and 37 negroes listed as illiterates in Laurens county, according to County School Superintendent Z. Whitehurst, who has just completed the school census. The returns show here 2,500 children of school age in the county and it is thought the number in the city will reach 2,150.

Cotton Prices Go Lower On Good Weather Outlook

New Orleans, La., April 15.—While there were fairly strong upticks at the beginning and again at the middle of this last week, cotton took on a pronounced downward trend and wound up the week at the lowest levels, 50 to 137 points under the close of the preceding week.

At the highest levels the trading months were 30 to 47 points over the close of the preceding week, prices ranging over 90 to 173 points in the week's trading. May traded up to 29.53, fell off to 27.80 and closed at that price; October rose to 25.61, fell off to 24.22 and closed at that price. In the spot department middling lost 57 points in the week, closing at 25.03 against 16.50 on the close of this week last year, the close of this week last year, while cable-

Bond Prices Are Higher But Market Remains Dull

New York, April 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—While bond prices continued to improve during the past week, the market was relatively dull, and the advances were small, due, many observers believe, to the large amount of undigested securities still remaining on dealers' shelves. Of the approximately $1,225,000,000 of new issues offered this year, it is estimated that in excess of $200,000,000 still are in the hands of bond dealers. To this situation is attributed failure of the bond market to turn definitely upward.

Other important factors influencing the bond market are the money rates and the uncertainty of the government financing which will take to meet May maturities. Time money eased slightly at the end of the week, bringing about a slight improvement in the general list.

Liberties Depressed.—United States government issues closed the week somewhat depressed, although they enjoyed a considerable advance earlier in the week. There were reports in the financial district that an order was placed during the week for the purchase of $100,000,000 in liberties for the account of Great Britain. Transactions in bonds on the New York stock exchange during March totaled $201,745,000 as compared with $218,357,000 in February and $418,491,000 in March 1922. Trading in foreign and U. S. government issues totaled $101,242,000, or 39.4 per cent of the month's trading.

New issues during the week totaled $201,745,000, the largest single offering being for $14,000,000. This compared with $20,012,000 the week before.

Industrial bonds generally were higher, sugar and copper bonds, particularly, showing considerable activity. Changes in these issues were largely the result of fluctuations in interest and fluctuations were comparatively small.

First preferred stock 7% cumulative	15,000,000	5,040,000
Second preferred stock 7% cumulative	5,000,000	2,675,000
Common stock (no par value)	500,000 shs.	90,000 shs.

STRAUS PLAN AMORTIZATION

UNDER the covenants of the trust mortgage, the bonds are paid off in yearly serial installments, the coupons being payable twice a year. In order to assure prompt payment of both principal and interest in cash on the days due, the trust mortgage requires the borrowing corporation to make 240 approximately equal monthly payments to S. W. Straus & Co., each monthly payment being approximately $60,000. These compulsory payments automatically provide in advance a fund averaging about $720,000 a year, from which the coupons are cashed, the balance being used for the serial retirement of the bonds.

The fixed charges under the Straus mortgage and the method of meeting them by monthly payments are set forth in the following table:

Maturity	Principal	Interest	Total	Average Monthly Payment

From data on which we have based the purchase of these bonds and from a letter of Mr. George M. Brown, President of Certain-teed Products Corporation, dated April 10, 1923, we summarize as follows:

THESE bonds are a closed first mortgage obligation of the company, constituting its sole funded debt and are secured by a direct first lien on all the land, buildings, equipment, machinery, etc., now owned by the company and to be acquired.

The purpose of this financing on the part of Certain-teed Products Corporation is to purchase the plants and properties of Cook's Linoleum Company and Standard Inlaid Manufacturing Company, both of Trenton, N. J., among the best known manufacturers of linoleum products in the United States; and Acme Cement Plaster Company, St. Louis, Mo., leading producers and distributors of gypsum and gypsum plaster products; and to retire outstanding purchase money obligations issued in 1920.

The company operates roofing and paint plants at York, Pa.; Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mansfield, Ill.; East St. Louis, Ill.; Richmond, Cal.; St. Louis, Mo.; linoleum and oilcloth plants at Philadelphia, Pa. and Trenton, N. J.; gypsum plants at Acme, Tex.; Acme, Okla.; Acme, New Mex.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Laramie, Wyo.; Cement, Okla.; Gypsum, Ore.

Certain-teed Products Corporation, already the largest prepared roofing manufacturers in the world, thus takes a further step in its policy of steady expansion toward a complete and fully diversified unit in the production of high quality building products. These large additions to its present manufacturing facilities and administrative organization mean the completion of its line of products for the construction, protection and equipment of buildings, and for the distribution of these closely related necessities through the same channels, eliminating all avoidable waste.

THE business was founded in 1904 and has a record of steady expansion and growth until it now covers the United States and extends into many foreign lands. For nineteen successive years the company has shown a profit each year, even during the trying times of 1920 and 1921 when many industrial corporations showed losses.

It is important to note that the company's business is not dependent on new building or building booms, since a very large portion of its sales are for purposes of rehabilitation, repairs and replacements.

MESSRS. Ford, Bacon & Davis and Messrs. George W. Goethals & Co. have appraised the sound value of the company's fixed assets as of approximately March 31, 1923, at $17,092,327, equivalent to $213.66 per $1000 bond. Net tangible assets are equivalent to $276.65 per $1000 bond.

The average net profits after depreciation and depletion, but before interest and taxes for the five years ended December 31, 1922, as certified in part by Marwick, Mitchell & Co., and in part by Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., are equivalent to 2.9 times the greatest annual interest charges on these bonds. Earnings during the last 18 months are greatly in excess of this ratio.

The company deals only in the manufacture of basic necessities in the building industry essential to the everyday life of all communities.

Legality of the issue will be approved and the trust mortgage and bonds will be drawn by Mr. Nicholas R. Jones and Messrs. White & Case for S. W. Straus & Co., Incorporated, and the trustees, and Messrs. Cravath, Henderson, Lefingwell & de Gersdorff for the issuing corporation. Title to the properties will be approved by local counsel under the direction of the foregoing attorneys.

We have purchased these bonds after careful investigation and offer them with our full recommendation as a safe investment for sums of any amount.

Ten-Thirty Year

Federal Land Bank 4 1/2% Bonds

Dated January 1, 1923 Not redeemable before January 1, 1933 Due January 1, 1933

Interest payable January 1 and July 1 at any Federal Land Bank or Federal Reserve Bank. Principal payable at the Bank of issue. Coupons and registered bonds (interchangeable) in denominations of $10,000, $5,000, $1,000, $500, $100 and $50. Redeemable at par and interest at any time after ten years from date of issue.

The Supreme Court of the United States has held, (a) that these Bonds were legally created as part of the banking system of the United States, and (b) that the bonds issued by the Banks are instrumentalities of the United States Government and are exempt from Federal, State, municipal and local taxation.

Operation: In five years of active operation the 12 Federal Land Banks have been built up until on February 28, 1923, their Capital was $37,574,477; Reserve, $3,403,000; Surplus and Undivided Profits, $2,600,036; and Total Assets $763,285,082. All twelve Banks are on a dividend paying basis and every bank shows a surplus earned from its operations.

Acceptable by Treasury: These bonds are acceptable by the United States Treasury as security for Government deposits including Postal Savings Funds.

Legal for Trust Funds: The Federal Farm Loan Act provides that the Bonds shall be lawful investments for all fiduciary and trust funds under the jurisdiction of the United States Government. They are eligible under the laws of many of the States for investment of all public and private funds and have been officially held eligible for investment by savings banks in 35 States.

The United States Government, as of February 28, 1923, owned approximately $3,000,000 of the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks. The Farm Loan Associations, during the year 1922, acquired approximately $3,500,000 of Federal Land Bank stock, 25% of the proceeds of which was used to retire stock owned by the Government, as required by the Farm Loan Act. The United States Treasury has purchased and now holds over $100,000,000 Federal Land Bank Bonds. While these Bonds are not Government obligations, and are not guaranteed by the Government, they are the secured obligations of Banks operating under Federal charter with Governmental supervision, on whose boards of direction the Government is represented.

At the request of the Federal Farm Loan Board in co-operation with and on behalf of the Federal Land Banks, we offer these bonds at:

Price 100 1/2% and Interest, to yield about 4.45% to the redeemable date (1933) and 4 1/2% thereafter to redemption or maturity
